John B. Cleveland

of the Class of 1869

leader in great industrial enterprises, a public-spirited citizen who has consecrated his wealth to the advancement

JOHN B. CLEVELAND

IN the dim haze of the distant future, a gray-haired man, fast passing into the winter of life, will take from the topmost shelf of his library a dusty volume, tattered and worn by the hands of curious children, and there in the dull glow of the dying embers he will live again the halcyon days of his college career. This little volume is published neither for literary critics nor the unsympathetic public. Here has been made merely an attempt to record the serious and the humorous, the work and the play of the Class of '20, so that in the years to come, when we look back in reverie, we shall have the printed page and the laughing picture to recall the glorious deeds of our past youth.

BY R. W. DAVIS

Come all together,
No matter the weather,
For the end at last has come.
Hi! President there,
Call a meeting fair
To see what of us shall become.

The gavel's falling,
The President's calling
For order in the class.
So stop your noise
And listen, boys,
Before your name we pass.

Here's Barney Bishop
Who's sure to dish up
Something to make us laugh.
His sayings rare,
To those who hear,
All sound like so much chaff.

Carmichael is killing
When it comes to spilling
His opponents on the gridiron.
Though built as a bull,
He's always full
Of the spirit of a lion.

Now here's a fellow
Who surely can bellow,
Which is against the rule.
He made such a noise
That all the boys
Immediately surnamed him Mule.

Why serious ever,
And joyous never
In college pranks, O, Ellis?
If ever should you
Seek the frivolous, too,
Just take some points from Hillis.

We have a teacher,
And also a preacher,
The brightest of our class.

And one named King
Who is sure to bring
Democracy to the mass.

And now I wonder
If from our number
A statesman rare shall arise,
Whose presence here,
Among friends so dear,
Is in premature disguise.

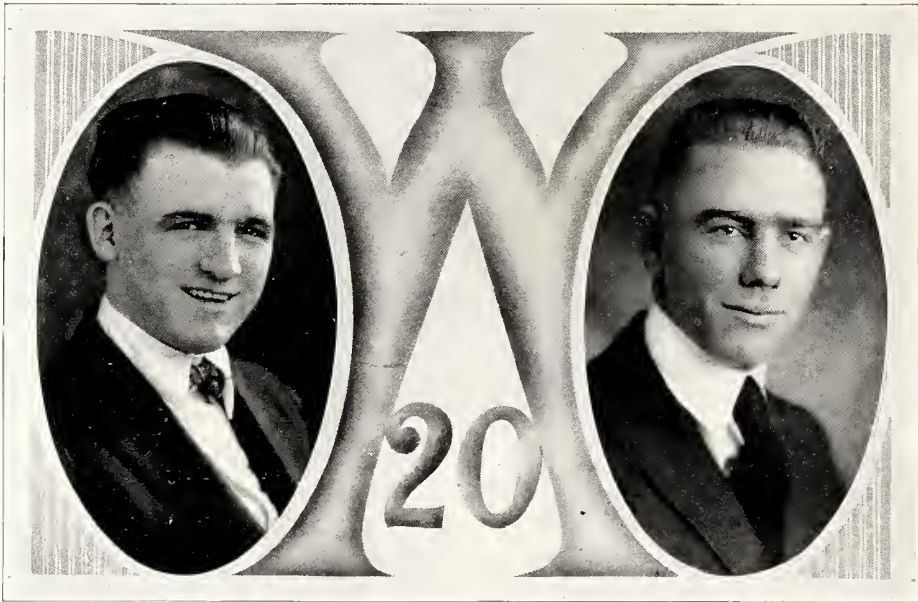

Just a bunch of boys,
With laughter and noise,
We started our Freshman year.
For knowledge wrought
By serious thought
We did not seem to care.

As the Sophomore Class
We had managed to mass
Our will for determined attack
Upon our book,
And not overlook
Our minds with thoughts to pack.

We took our share
With a spirit rare
Of the burdens Juniors know.
And in each class
We tried to surpass
The marks that records show.

Our Senior year
Is without peer
Among our college joys.
And we have become,
With the exception of some,
Young men instead of boys.

Four years have past,
We come at last
To a goal we've sought and won.
O, that we might
In life's future fight
Continue the good work done.

BARNEY BRANNON BISHOP, JR., A.B. Inman, S. C.

"And since thou lovest, love still, and thrive therein."

First Censor and Member Inter-society Committee, Carlisle Literary Society; Secretary Spartanburg County Rustics two years; Class Football '17-'18, '19-'20; Class Basketball '16-'17; Varsity Basketball '19-'20; Member Hikers' Club '17-'18.

Barney hails from the little town of Inman. He is an all-around good fellow, full of fun and frolic. He is quite an adept in telling jokes and is continually pulling off a new one—of the vaudeville variety. He is an ardent admirer of the fair sex, though rumor has it that he has narrowed his activities along this line to a certain belle in his home town. Taking him all in all, his easy-going manner and friendly ways have won for him the regard and esteem of all who know him.

WILLIAM LEWIS BOZEMAN, A.B., Π K Φ Simpsonville, S. C.

"Though feature and form be ever so worn, a man's a man for a' that."

Varsity Baseball '17, '18, '19, '20; Class Football '16, '17; Manager Sophomore Football Team; President, Member Finance Committee, Corresponding Secretary, Preston Literary Society; College Marshal '18-'19; Vice-President Sophomore Class; Member Block W Club '18, '19, '20; Assistant Manager Basketball '19; President Junior Class; Secretary, Treasurer Carlisle Hall Executive Committee; Assistant Captain Baseball '19; Member Athletic Advisory Board '20, Secretary '19, Recording Secretary three terms; Manager Varsity Basketball; Varsity Football Team '20; Captain Varsity Baseball Team '20; Vice-President Student Body; President Pan-Hellenic Council; Athletic Editor Bohemian; Member College Council; Pipe Dreamers' Club; Bulldogs; President Block W. Club.

Bozeman is his name, but all of us call him "Boze." He possesses an unusual disposition. During his four years' stay upon the campus, he has never been seen without his characteristic smile. He has played on the Wofford "nine" for four years, and the last year he was captain of the team. In football he played end and was awarded his block. In basketball he served his college as manager. He has been an important factor in every phase of college life, and he leaves with the admiration with which his college mates have always looked upon him. His enviable record at Wofford is no doubt an index to a successful future.

GEORGE ADAM CARLISLE, A.B., K Σ Spartanburg, S. C.

*"As pure in thought as angels are;
To know her was to love her."*

Vice-President Calhoun Literary Society; Pan-Hellenic Council; Varsity Football, two years; Member Basketball Team '17, Manager '18.

Although George hails from the "City of Success," from the first he showed that he had caught the view of college life that broadens men in every respect. He has taken an active interest in all phases of college life—in literary society work as well as athletics, being vice-president of the Calhoun Literary Society, and holding other offices in that organization. Knowing George as we do, we feel sure that we can predict for him great success in whatever he undertakes in after-life, and we shall watch with the eyes of a friend his many achievements.

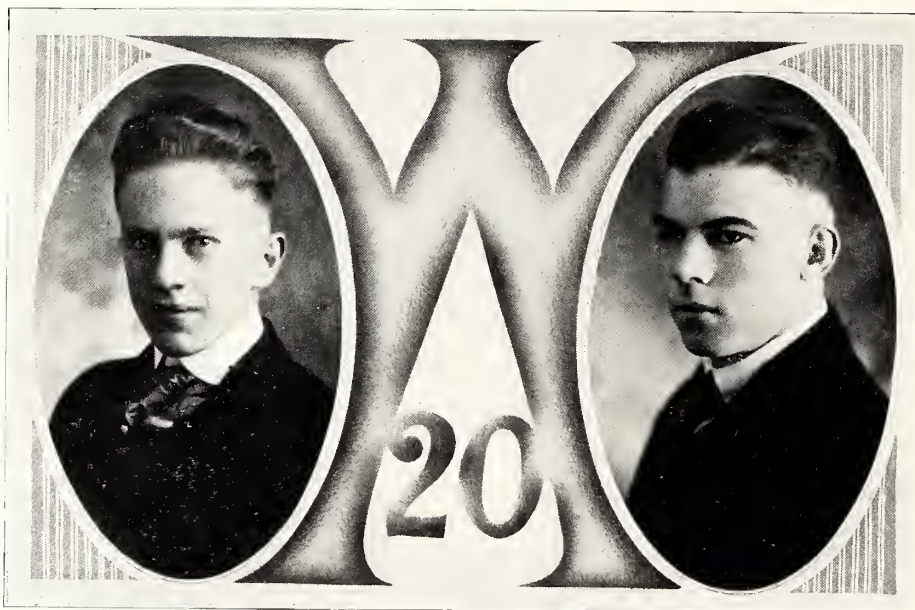

BENJAMIN FOREST CARMICHAEL, A.B., K Σ Mullins, S. C.

"Actions speak louder than words."

Corresponding Secretary, First Censor, Member Board of Trust, President Carlisle Literary Society; Chief Freshman Marshal; Varsity Football, '16, '17, '19; Varsity Baseball, four years; Assistant Captain Varsity Football, '19; Sophomore Speaker; Assistant Athletic Editor Bohemian, '17; Vice-President, President Marion-Dillon County Club; Coach Class Football, '17-'18, '19-'20; Gold Bar Club, '19; Block W Club, three years secretary College Honor System, '19; College Chief Marshal, '19; Junior Debater; Business Manager Bohemian; Assistant Editor-in-Chief Old Gold and Black; President Senior Class; President Carlisle Hall Executive Committee (first term); President Y. M. C. A.; Member Athletic Advisory Board, two years; College Council, '20; Managers' Club; Presidents' Club; President Student Body; Vice-President Debating Club; Pipe Dreamers' Club.

Mike's college career began on the gridiron, where for three years he has been a great offensive and defensive player greatly to be feared by opposing teams. "Give the ball to Mike!" is the cry from the sidelines when Wofford needs a touchdown. On the baseball team he has also been a star. Besides his athletic accomplishments, his work among college and Y. M. C. A. activities has been pronounced. He is a true admirer of the fair sex, and in this line we predict for him even greater success than he has already attained—and we wish them much success.

OTIS GLENN DANIEL, A.B. Spartanburg, S. C.

"He's the mint in my julep of joy."

Corresponding Secretary, Second Critic, First Censor, Preston Literary Society; Electricity Club; Y. M. C. A. Cabinet, '20.

Behold the red-headed hustler of the class, ladies and gentlemen! He has a marvelous capacity for getting out of work and making professors believe that his excuses and reasons are legitimate. He has proved himself a shark along this line, especially in connection with "Das" Chiles' German and Clink's astronomy. When we first knew Daniel he was wearing short trousers, and, oh! girls, he was the cutest thing you most ever saw. We predict for him unlimited success in both the business and the matrimonial world, as we have never known one whose cheeks were vermillion and whose hair was auburn to get "left" on any proposition. Moreover, his wit and good nature, which he displayed so copiously upon the campus, are bound to be an asset and serve him in good stead outside of the college world.

ROBERT WRIGHT DAVIS, A.B. Darlington, S. C.

*"I look at all things as they are,
But through a kind of glory."*

Vice-President '18, President '20, Darlington County Club; College Marshal, '18-'19; Treasurer, Member Board of Trust, Second Critic, two terms, and Vice-President Carlisle Literary Society; Varsity Football, '19-'20; Senior Class Football; Local Editor Old Gold and Black; Senior Member Honor System; Senior Class Poet; Member Bohemian Art Society; President Debating Club; Secretary, Treasurer Carlisle Hall Executive Committee.

A friend, a student, and a gentleman. By his amiable character and cheerfulness Bob has gained many friends. He is ever ready to help his fellow students, even at a sacrifice to himself. The fact that he loves his Alma Mater is shown by his taking part in almost every phase of college life. He is not only a star in the class room, but has always taken an active part in athletics. He is persistent and puts his entire soul into his work. He is kind, true, noble and generous, with a broad mind and an impartial disposition—a friend never to be forgotten.

ALBERT JEFFERSON DILLARD, JR., A.B. Π K Φ Spartanburg, S. C.

"Oh, shades of Psyche, Juno, and Aurora!"

College Marshal, Second Critic, Calhoun Literary Society; Assistant Business Manager Wofford Journal; Secretary, Treasurer and President of the Pipe Dreamers' Club; Vice-President Bulldogs.

Behold a blade, a buck, a beau—forsooth, a Corinthian—for such, indeed, is that distinguished gentleman familiarly known as Jeff. The pathway of this distinguished scholastic is literally strewn with relics of romantic conquest. It has been whispered that he, on one momentous occasion, indited a sonnet to the autumn moon as it waned, silhouetting the towers of Converse College. Considering all of Jeff's qualities, we predict a happy and successful future in both matrimonial and business undertakings.

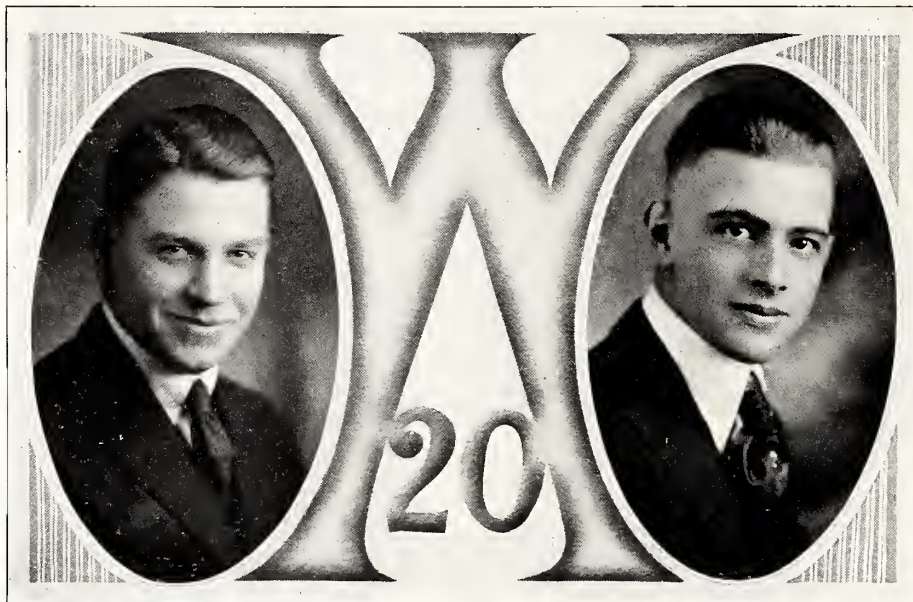

HENRY HUBERT ELLIS, A.B. Silver Street, S. C.

"Let not him who is girding on his sword boast himself as he who is putting it off."

Third Censor, Recording Secretary, Junior Monthly Orator, First Censor, Carlisle Literary Society; Sophomore Class Football, '17-'18; Member Edgefield and Saluda County Club.

Ellis has done his best in all his studies, seeking no glory for himself, but considering it his duty to perfect everything he undertakes. As to character, he is not "slothful in business, fervent in spirit, serving the Lord." As a companion, he is true, noble and honest, and one to be taken into confidence. Never dealing in things that were in any way questionable, he has been a power in the higher and nobler thoughts and deeds on the campus. Wherever we find him in future life, it will be in an honorable business, and we can truthfully say that here works a man.

VERNON CHESNEE EARLE, A.B., II K Φ Spartanburg, S. C.

"The greatest accomplishment of all: the building of a man."

Vice-President, First Censor, Second Censor, Third Critic, Calhoun Literary Society; Class Basketball, '16-'17; Manager Class Basketball; Varsity Basketball, '18, '19, and '20; Varsity Football, '16, '17, '18, '19; Captain Varsity Football, '19-'20; Member Athletic Advisory Board; Treasurer Junior Class; Secretary Block W Club; Assistant Business Manager Bohemian, '18-'19; Member College Council; Coach Freshman Football Team, '19-'20.

In the above likeness it is given to us to behold in truth a warrior bold. In times of dire distress Earle's rock-like solidity has proved a sure rallying point in the face of almost certain athletic defeat. Although torn between his loyalty for his Alma Mater and an absorbing interest in the affairs of G. W. C., he has never been known to cut "Jimmie."

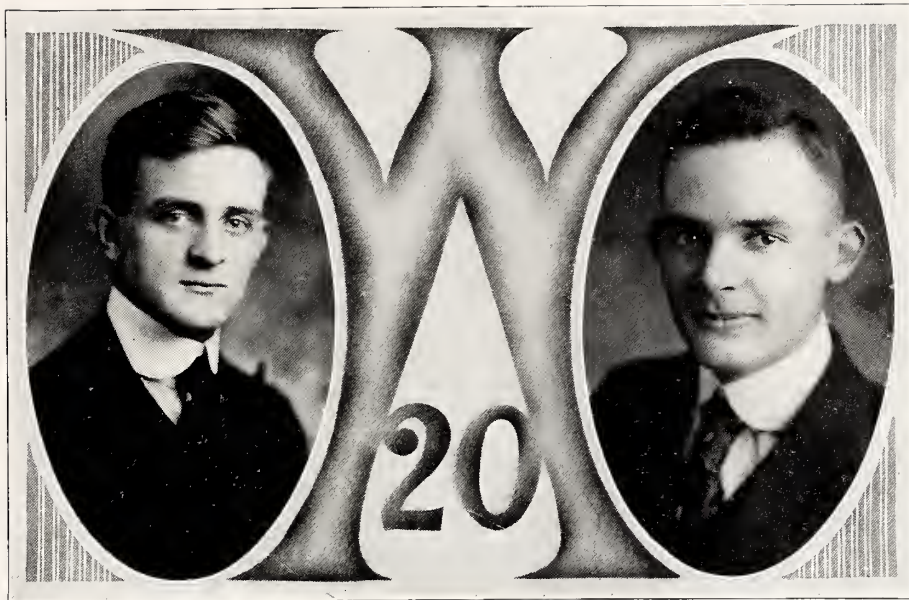

WILLIAM WOODWARD FANT, A.B. Rock Hill, S. C.

"Come and trip it as you go on the light fantastic toe."

Member Calhoun Literary Society; Instructor Fitting School

The above-mentioned gentleman, having accomplished that gentle although exceedingly rare art of fooling the professors, has, in recognition of this achievement, been rewarded with the appellation of "Owl." It is rumored that "Jimmie" secretly fears this astute individual as a possible competitor in the realm of Deutsche. "Owl" appeals to all his friends of old Wofford as a pleasing representative of that celebrated institution.

FRANK LOCKWOOD FITZSIMONS, A.B. Spartanburg, S. C.

"None but himself can be his parallel."

Winner Freshman Declamation Medal, '15; Sophomore Speaker, '16; Junior Debater, '17; Freshman, Sophomore, Junior and Senior Monthly Orator, Recording Secretary, First Critic, Vice-President Preston Literary Society; Intercollegiate Debate Council; Class Football, '14, '15, '16, and '19.

"Fitz" comes to us from the Class of '18, due to the fact that his patriotic zeal led him to enlist in the U. S. Army. In the spring of 1918 he served bravely in battles that made the Second Division famous. "Fitz" is one of the most popular boys in college, due to his wonderful personality, which has endowed him with the ability to make and hold friends. One would surmise from his fondness for debate and oratory that his ambition would be to become a lawyer. But, queer as it may seem, his desire is to be a tiller of the soil in the western portion of our sister state.

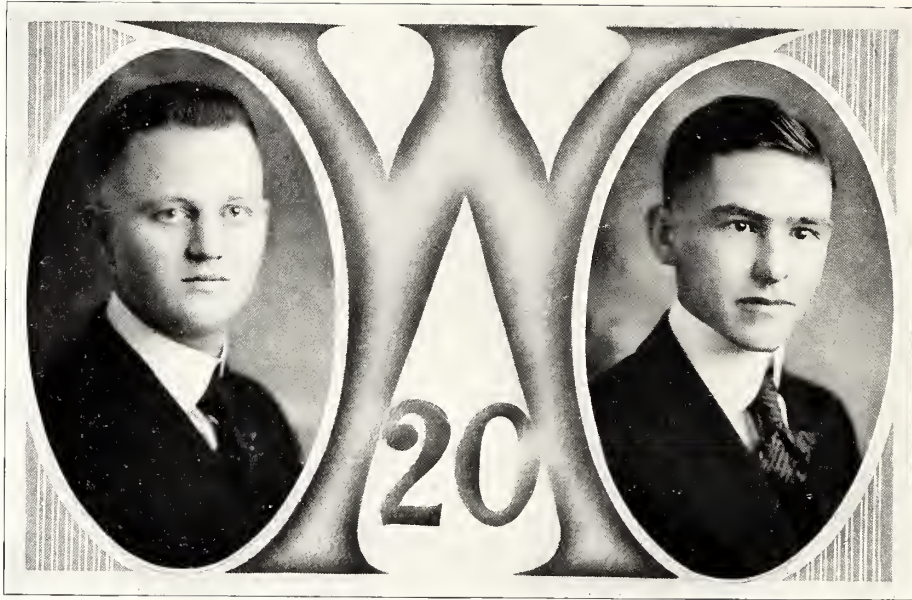

JOHN CARY FOWLER, A.B. Wilkinsville, S. C.

"Tickle me, love, in these lonesome ribs."

Member of Track Team, '14-'15; Corresponding Secretary, Second Critic, and Vice-President Preston Literary Society; Member Intersociety Committee.

John began his college career away back with the Class of '18, and had completed three-fourths of that long and weary journey when he decided that Uncle Sam needed him to help win the war. The result of the war is beyond question, and so, after nearly two years' service, he is back again and has cast his lot with the Class of '20. A quiet, retiring, unassuming sort of a fellow he is, loathe to push himself forward, but truly a thoroughly good fellow and a friend to be counted as an asset. Our every good wish follows him from the doors of our Alma Mater.

SLOAN WILSON GABLE, A.B. Antreville, S. C.

*"It matters not how straight the gate,
How charged with punishments the scroll;
I'm the master of my fate,
I'm the captain of my soul."*

Third Censor, Second Censor, First Critic, Vice-President Carlisle Literary Society; Member Old Gold and Black Staff; Treasurer Abbeville-Anderson County Club; Vice-President Debating Club.

With a determinate will, Gable seems to have dropped the word can't from his vocabulary. Though surrounded by seemingly unsurmountable difficulties on his first arrival at college, he surprised all by getting down to work and accomplishing the impossible. Strong in character, he has always done that which he thought to be right. Being a most amiable companion, he has gained many friends. He is a man of high ideals and noble thoughts, a real thinker. Although no athlete, Gable is a staunch supporter of all college activities. Such has been his record that his associates prophesy for him a happy and prosperous future.

THOMAS JEFFERSON GASQUE, A.B. Marion, S. C.

"Seest thou a man diligent in his business? He shall stand before rulers; he shall not stand before common men."

Member Y. M. C. A. Cabinet, '19-'20; Third Censor, Chairman Hall Committee, and Recording Secretary, Carlisle Literary Society; Reporter and Secretary of Debating Club; Secretary and Treasurer Marion-Dillon County Club, '19; President Epicurean Club; Member Executive Committee of Carlisle Hall.

Behold this slender lad of serious mien, vivacious manner, and seer-like gaze! He is of French Huguenot descent and inherits those traits of indomitable will, moral earnestness and thriftiness so common to his ancestry. He also imbibed the usual Frankish gallantry toward mademoiselles. However, he isolated himself from cupidical circles in his Junior year for the purpose of doing enough study to make it possible for him to graduate in three years.

HARVEY WILLIAM JOHNSON, A.B., K Σ Spartanburg, S. C.

"All things come to him who waits. Therefore, why should I hurry?"

His nickname is "Preacher," but far be it from him to concern himself as that word implies. His attitude is generally that of quiet thoughtfulness, and his independence is unsurpassed. On many occasions he has shown his strength of intellect and his cynical regard of other men's opinions. He has a mind of his own and frankly and openly makes it known. He is what he is, and he lets no criticisms affect him. He is true to his friends, and with few exceptions, though in varying degree, he is a friend of all. He is satisfied when the sun shines, and if the sun rests—well, Harvey is not perturbed.

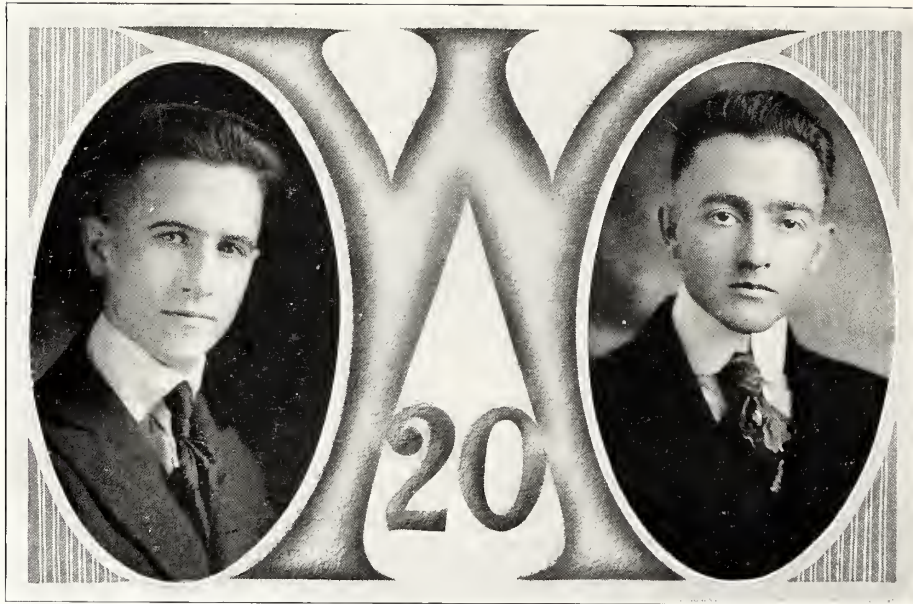

HARRY LEWIS HARVIN, A.B. Pinewood, S. C.

"Had I but one penny in the world, Thou shouldst have it to buy gingerbread."

Class Football, '17, '19; Secretary Sophomore Class, '18; Junior Debater, '19; Treasurer Senior Class; Business Manager Old Gold and Black; Member Gold Bar Club; Y. M. C. A. Cabinet; Vice-President Clarendon County Club; Member Wofford College Council; Vice-President Carlisle Hall Executive Committee; Senior Speaker; Corresponding Secretary, Second Critic, Vice-President, President, Member Finance Committee, Preston Literary Society.

Harry hails from the metropolis of Pinewood—but what's in a name? The only thing that would betray his nativity is his lusty halloo and the boisterous, blustering way he comes down the hall. He is very bashful and timid, especially when surrounded by the fair sex, but devoutly patriotic, believing that Columbia is not only the gem of the ocean, but the gem of his future, also. Harry is an all-round man, one of which the Class of '20 might well be proud. He takes great interest in athletics, is a good student, and is liked by all who know him. Genial, courteous, unassuming, reliable, a true friend, and every inch a man—that's Harry.

HORACE GASH JOHNSON, A.B. Spartanburg, S. C.

"No recipe openeth the heart but a true friend."

First Censor, Second Critic, Calhoun Literary Society; Basketball Team, '18, '19, '20; Member Honor System; Captain Basketball, '20; Member of Block W Club; College Council; Manager of Class Football.

This is Horace, better known as "Galley Rat," or, better still, as "Nib." A finer specimen of chivalrous youth you will not find in a day's journey. "Nib" is a friend on whom you may depend; the girls proclaim him the ideal man. He is a champion in athletics, a shark in geology, astronomy is his hobby, but physics broke his heart. Now that he has finished college and a degree has been won, we are expecting great things from "Nib" in the race he has begun. So, with a word of encouragement, we bid him a fond farewell.

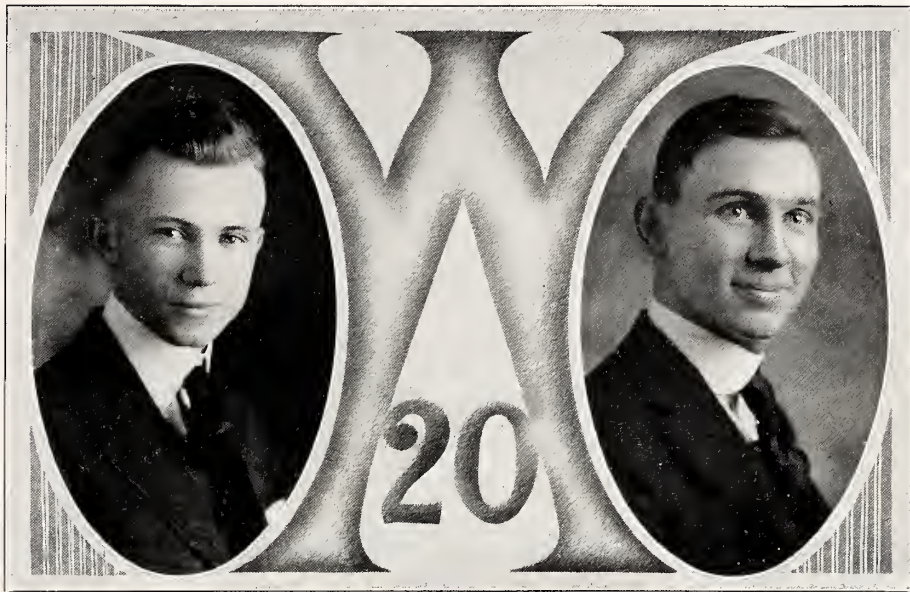

EUGENE HOBART KING, A.B. McBee, S. C.

"No man was ever glorious who was not laborious."

Class Football, '17, '18, '19; Vice-President '19, Secretary '20, Darlington County Club; President Debating Club, '20; Member Y. M. C. A. Cabinet; Vice-President Wofford Fitting School Alumni Association, '20; Member Board of Trust; Member Intercollegiate Debate Council, Corresponding Secretary, Recording Secretary, First Critic, Vice-President, President Carlisle Literary Society.

That the above line applies to "Hobe," all his classmates will agree. He is not only a hard worker, but one of the best all-round students in our class. His tenacity of purpose and high ideals will certainly crown his efforts with success. He is frank in his speech and positive in his actions. To learn him is to know him, and to know him is to love and admire him. He has made many friends, who wish for him success in his chosen profession of medicine. We predict for "Hobe" a brilliant future.

ALONZO STOKES KING, A.B. Conway, S. C.

"I care not! Not I! Let the critics go whistle."

Corresponding Secretary, Third Censor, Member Board of Trust, Recording Secretary, Sophomore Monthly Orator, President, Carlisle Literary Society; Correspondent Horry County Club; College Marshal; Historian Freshman Class; Winner Freshman Medal; Assistant Literary Editor Bohemian, '17-'18, '18-'19; Secretary Student Body, '17-'18; Member Carlisle Hall Executive Committee; Reader Glee Club, '17-'18, '18-'19; President Sophomore Class; Winner Sophomore Exhibition Medal; Junior Debater; Assistant Manager Baseball; Circulation Manager Old Gold and Black; Oratorical Speaker; Manager Glee Club; Representative S. C. I. O. A., '18-'19; President Y. M. C. A.; Member Executive Committee, S. C. C. P. A.; President Intercollegiate Debate Council; Member Presidents' Club three years; Member Managers' Club; Editor-in-Chief Wofford College Journal; Editor-in-Chief Bohemian; Senior Speaker.

Stokes presented his passports from "The Independent Republic of Horry," and was admitted to civilization in the early fall of '16. He came to us already far-famed for his silver-tongued oratory, having won the highest high school honors of the state. He has kept this record through college, winning both the Freshman and Sophomore medals, and taking third place for Wofford at the State Oratorical Contest. But, alas! the tongue of the orator will be silenced forever, for another voice will be heard as wedding bells chime in the future. Honored by his mates and respected by the faculty, Stokes has won for himself an enviable place in the memory of his fellows.

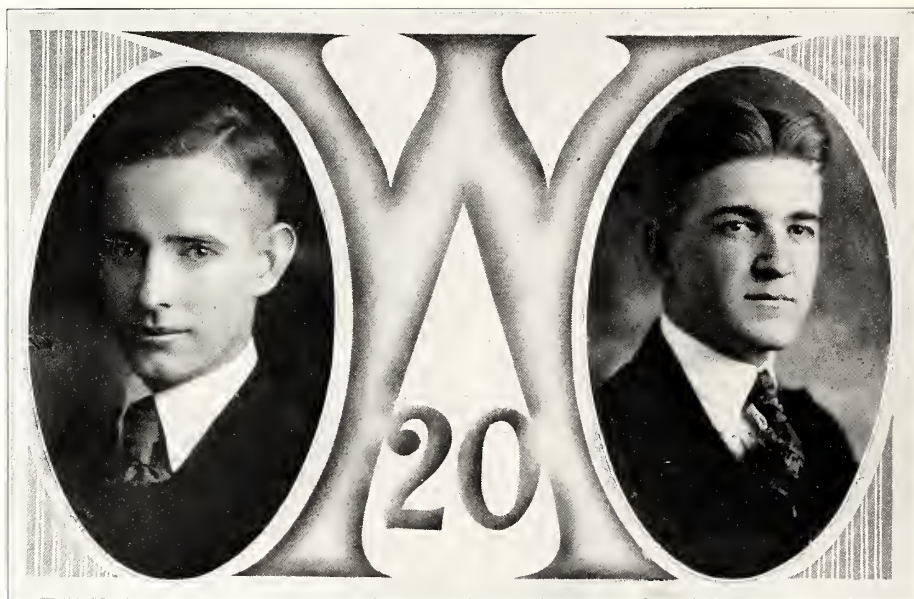

MADISON WALDO LEVER, A.B. Blythewood, S. C.

"There are two things that fill me with ceaseless awe—the starry heavens above and the moral law within."

Second Censor, Junior Monthly Orator, Senior Monthly Orator, First Critic Carlisle Literary Society; Reporter, Vice-President, President Ministerial Band; President, Vice-President Student Volunteer Band; Member Richland County Club, '18; President Carlisle Club, '20; Member Debating Club; Y. M. C. A. Cabinet; Class Football; Member Epicurean Club.

The above gentleman is another of those three-year wonders. In him we have a very striking combination of scientist and moral philosopher. Those big, searching eyes show him to be the stargazer and religious zealot that he is. However, he is not so much occupied with ethereal regions that terra firma has no attractions for him. Lander College interests him in a way not exactly literary, and the fact that his favorite book in the Bible is Galatians tells a tale all its own.

EUGENE CAPERS MITCHELL, A.B., $K \Sigma$ Mounteville, S. C.

"His life is gentle and the elements so mixed in him that Nature might stand up and say to all the world: This is a man."

Corresponding Secretary, Treasurer, Senior Monthly Orator, Vice-President, President Calhoun Literary Society; President Freshman Class; Historian Sophomore Class; Secretary Y. M. C. A. and Member "Y" Cabinet; Member Honor System Committee; Chief Marshal Sophomore Exhibition; Member Carlisle Hall Executive Committee, '18; Vice-President Junior Class; Junior Debater; Assistant Manager Football '18, Manager '19; Vice-President Laurens County Club '18-'19, President '20; Member Athletic Advisory Board, '19-'20; Block W Club; Literary Editor Journal; Editor-in-Chief Old Gold and Black; Secretary Wofford College Council; Secretary Pan-Hellenic Council, '20.

It would be hard to find on the campus a more popular man than "Gene," or one upon whom has been conferred more honors, beginning with the Freshman Class presidency and concluding with a professorship at the Fitting School in addition to his regular work. "Gene's" curriculum also included a six-months course in the army, which helps to account for his broad insight into human nature. When it comes to judging a man, his ability is unsurpassed. He has an excellent and jovial disposition and a pleasant smile for everyone, but never lets pleasure interfere with his studies, for he has been a leader in all of his classes. We have known "Gene" for four years, and can predict nothing but brilliant success for him in the future.

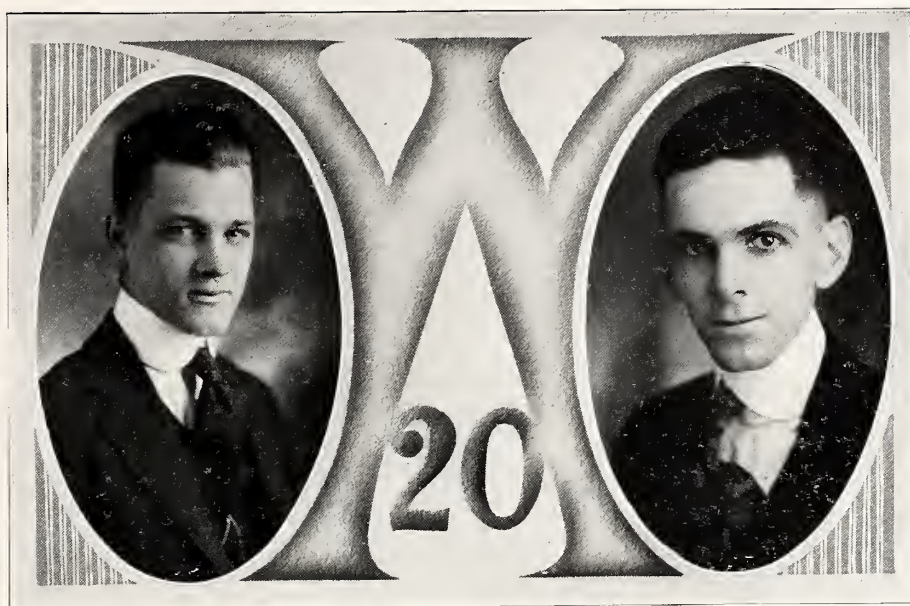

AUSTIN TALLEY MOORE, A.B., $K \Sigma$ Ridgeway, S. C.

"Who mixed reason with pleasure and wisdom with mirth."

Vice-President Calhoun Society; Member Pipe Dreamers' Club; Gold Bar Club; Glee Club, '18, '19, '20; Assistant Manager Glee Club '19, Manager '20; President Fairfield County Club; Vice-President Carlisle Club; Member College Council; Varsity Football, '19; Managers' Club, '20.

Do you know him? Then you are convinced of his amiable disposition, his high regard for the feelings of others, and his contagious good will. On account of his tidy appearance and his pleasant thoughtfulness, he has become a popular favorite among his own and the opposite sex. His manly bearing and executive ability are evidenced by his enviable military career as one of Uncle Sam's commissioned officers. Despite his many social engagements and his natural love for moderate enjoyment, he is promptly attentive to duty's call.

RAY WEBSTER NEIGHBOUR, A.B. Spartanburg, S. C.

"I told you so—I knew it."

Class Football, '17, '18, '20; Varsity Football, '19; Varsity Basketball, '18, '19-'20; Third Critic Calhoun Literary Society; Member Art Club '19, President '20; Member Block W Club; Presidents' Club; Member Honor System, '18; Fitting School Alumni, '16, '17, '18, '19.

Tall, handsome, and endowed with a knowledge of everything never heard of before, we have the Utopian of the Class of '20. Ask Ray; he knows! An authority on everything and everybody—he is the walking encyclopedia of the age. Behold that dark, bushy growth on the summit of his dome, girls—but be careful! Ray is a natural mechanic, an authority on the Ford, and an athlete. He was born in Texas and bred in Ohio, but to be married in Spartanburg is his greatest desire. For Ray's convenience, Wofford is to be moved to South Church Street.

PETER STOKES PEEPLES, A.B., $\Delta \Sigma \Phi$ Bluffton, S. C.

"Not swift nor slow to change; but firm."

President, First Censor, Second Censor, Third Censor, First Critic, Senior Monthly Orator, President Preston Literary Society, Secretary '19, President '20; Wofford Fitting School Alumni Association, Vice-President Pan-Hellenic Council, '20; Varsity Baseball, '16; Class Baseball, '16.

Although this is not the Biblical Peter of old, yet he is an ardent and modest member of the Class of '20. Though quiet and seemingly reserved, "Pete," as he is commonly known on the campus, is a man of unusual intellectual and business possibilities. His serious-minded purpose and persistent effort have gained for him much knowledge and the high esteem of his many friends and fellow students. Endowed thus with these qualities, he will undoubtedly make a great success in the future business world.

GEORGE DEWEY PETTIT, A.B. Spartanburg, S. C.

"Luck is better than science."

First Critic, Third Critic, Sophomore Orator, Preston Literary Society; Treasurer Wofford Fitting School Alumni; Class Football three years.

Pettit, "The Boy Wonder," is worth his weight in gold, as his irresistible and unrivaled laugh makes him a second Arbuckle. Some day he will make his fortune teaching the world how to laugh. He is the friend of every man on the campus—good-hearted, jovial, and a demon among the fair sex. Pettit's only regret is that he was born lucky instead of good-looking, but we'll bet him ten to one that some day the fairest maiden at Converse will fall a victim to his hypnotizing laugh, and then his brilliant career "on the greens" will suddenly come to an end.

HILLIS RICHARD PHILLIPS, A.B. Marion, S. C.

"He endeavored so to live that even the undertaker will be sorry when he dies."

President, First Critic, First Censor, Calhoun Literary Society; Member Honor System Committee; Intercollegiate Debate Council; Class Football '16-'17, '17-'18, Captain '17-'18; Varsity Football, '19-'20; Gymnasium Team, '16-'17; Member Block W Club; Vice-President Williamsburg County Club; College Marshal; Member Marion County Club; Art Editor Bohemian; Member Wofford College Council, '19-'20; Assistant Coach Senior Football Team, '19-'20; Member Carlisle Hall Executive Committee.

Behold! a man approaches, and everyone recognizes him at once as "Phil," who, although we do not know from whence he cometh nor whither he goeth, has been with us for the past four years, and during that time has made a host of friends. That agreeableness of character and willingness to help others at all times have made him one of the most popular boys on the campus. He was active in all phases of college life, winning his Block W in football, taking an active part in literary society work, and never neglecting his studies. He is one of the many who have caught the larger vision of college life, and it is with much pleasure that we feel and are able to say that he will succeed in whatever he undertakes in years to come, just as he has succeeded on the campus.

JOSEPH WINNINGHAM PHILLIPS, A.B. Spartanburg, S. C.

"I heard a voice from heaven saying unto me, Write."

Assistant Literary Editor Bohemian, '17; Freshman Speaker, Sophomore Speaker, Junior Debater, Monthly Orator, First Critic, Calhoun Literary Society; Winner Journal Essay Medal; Member Honor System; Y. M. C. A. Cabinet; Editor Handbook; Oratorical Speaker, '17, '18, '19, '20; Senior Speaker; Senior Class Prophet.

Joe is a real citizen of Spartanburg. His city should be proud of him because of his extra qualities. He always stands for the right, and advises his fellow students to do the same. Joe can be depended upon in his class. He is for preparedness always. Although he has given much time to his books, he has found time to make a name for himself as a "pen-pusher" for the Spartanburg Herald. He also made himself famous as the first Freshman in the history of Wofford to speak in the annual oratorical contest. Joe has become very popular with the fair sex. In fact, he would have been on the distinction list every time excepting for the location of Converse.

WILSON PHILLIPS, A.B. Springfield, S. C.

"I never trouble trouble till trouble troubles me."

Second Censor, Third Censor, Carlisle Literary Society; Journal Staff, '20; Senior Football Team, '20.

The above represents a young man of as care-free a disposition as imaginable. Yet, notwithstanding the fickleness of his personal nature, he is as staunch and true a friend to his acquaintances as one could wish. The nickname the boys have given to this psychological, dynamical trichotomy is "Flip," possibly because of the way in which he flips his words and books about. He is a champion "tussler," and has made the gymnasium a worthless institution so far as some of the students are concerned. We predict that he will some day be a director there.

JOSEPH WILLIAM POTTS, A.B., II K Φ Lynchburg, S. C.

"Better a paying young man than a promising one."

Second Critic, Secretary (two terms), President Calhoun Literary Society; Assistant Advertising Manager Bohemian, '18-'19; Assistant Manager Varsity Baseball, '18-'19; College Honor System Committee, '18-'19; Member Carlisle Hall Executive Committee, '19; Secretary Bohemian Art Society, '18-'19, Vice-President '19-'20; College Marshal, '18-'19; Athletic Editor Old Gold and Black; Exchange Editor Journal; Manager Varsity Baseball; Advertising Manager Bohemian; Member Block W Club; Athletic Advisory Board; Intersociety Committee; Treasurer College Council; Class Football, '20; President Carlisle Hall Executive Committee.

Joe came to us four years ago as a quiet, gentlemanly young fellow. He hails from Lynchburg, S. C. It was not long before we found that there was something in him. He began to win friend after friend, and they increased as the years passed. But Joe's quality as a social gentleman is not his best characteristic; he is a man of high purposes and ideals. He has many distinctions on his college record, which shows that he does much studying. Some have thought that he was a woman-hater, but we can see now that the only ground for such an opinion is that he was always devoted to his studies and college activities, these leaving him scant time for the ladies. Judging from our four years' association with Joe, we are unanimous in the belief that he will be a great asset to mankind in years to come.

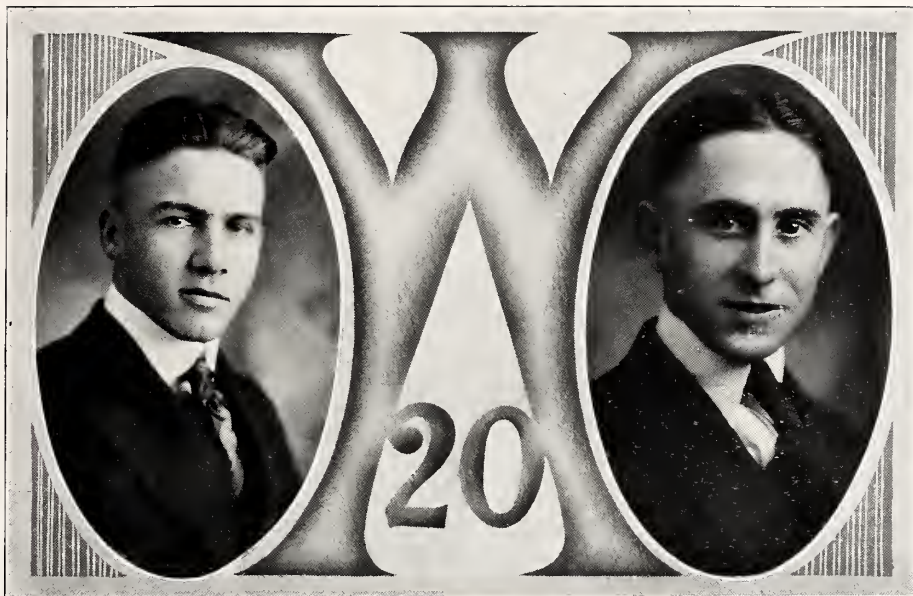

JOHN HILL READY, A.B. Johnston, S. C.

"If music be the prod for love, play on!"

First Critic, Second Critic, Third Critic, Second Censor, Sophomore Speaker, Calhoun Literary Society; Secretary Junior Class; Circulation Manager Wofford College Journal; President Edgefield-Saluda County Club.

The Senior Class now presents its most lovable creature—carved like the god Apollo in limb and fair as Adonis in face. Hill is the most notorious heart-smasher that ever breathed free atmosphere. However, despite his woman-killing propensities, Hill is a worthy student and has also taken much interest in class football and literary society work. He is very fond of geology, and after spending much time perusing its dogmas he now firmly believes in the descent of man. Taken all in all, Hill richly deserves his "dip," and he will leave a host of friends on the campus.

VIRGIL MADISON ROGERS Moore, S. C.

"If it be a gentleman and a scholar ye seek, ye have found him."

Sophomore Monthly Orator, Corresponding Secretary, First Critic, Second Critic, Preston Literary Society; Class Football, '19-'20; Member Honor System Committee.

His name is Virgil, but he is better known as Hiram. He has a noble carriage and a haughty step. To see him in the distance one would think that a retired judge or capitalist were approaching. He is a gentleman and a scholar and beloved by all who know him. His presence carries awe. Ask the lowly privates of the field artillery battery of which Hiram was "top" sergeant during the war. Hiram has an insatiable thirst to go West. His friends know that he will make a huge success in whatever he undertakes in that land of opportunity. Watch Hi!

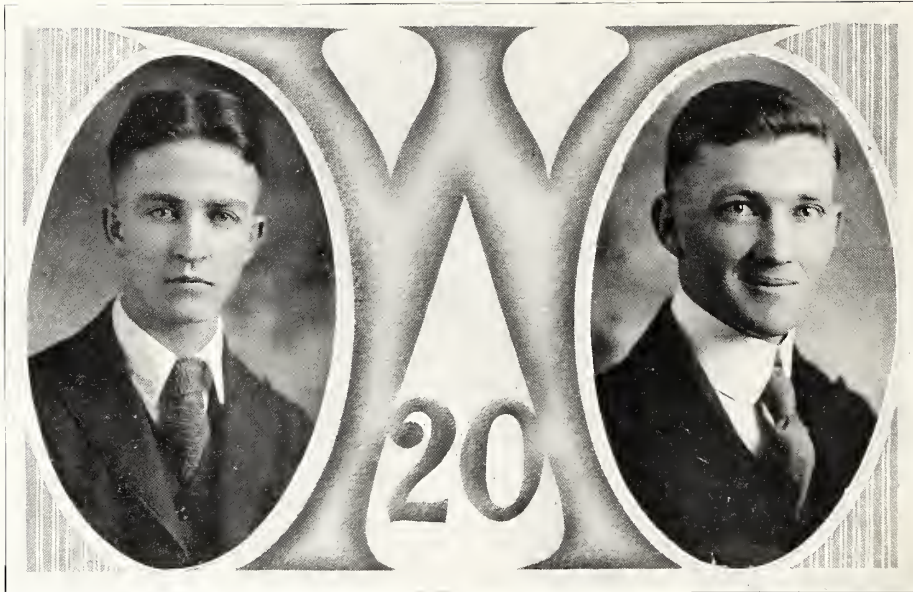

RICHMOND HOBSON ROLLINGS, A.B., $\Pi K \psi$ Pinewood, S. C.

"My romances have been many; my emotions deep."

Monthly Orator, Corresponding Secretary, Second Censor, Recording Secretary, First Critic, Preston Literary Society; Assistant Cheer Leader; Carlisle Hall Executive Committee, '18-'19; Assistant Editor Journal; Member Pipe Dreamers' Club.

"Rooter," although laboring under the disadvantage of hailing from the rustic enclaves of Pinewood, has managed to assimilate a thin veneer of civilization. The milestones of his academic progress are ornamented with the relics of romantic conquests. The best that can be said of anyone is that he is sincere and reliable, and he is both. He has won the respect and admiration of the faculty by study, and the love of his classmates by his true geniality. Incidentally, he is also a terpsichorean artist—the only one in captivity that can give a correct interpretation of the dances of "Slick" Swygert. We anticipate, as a climax to his chosen profession of law, the occupancy of the heavy end of the supreme bench.

JOHN GARRISON SNELLING, JR., A.B., K.A. New Orleans, La.

*"No pieces we in any fateful game,
Nor free to shift on destiny the blame."*

Vice-President Freshman Class; Manager Freshman Football Team; College Marshal; Varsity Football, '17-'18; Advertising Manager Y. M. C. A. Handbook; Member Y. M. C. A. Cabinet; Vice-President Pipe Dreamers' Club, '19; Assistant Editor-in-Chief Bohemian; Varsity Football, '19-'20; Member Athletic Advisory Board.

John came to us from the far-away Crescent City in 1916, and since then has been an important factor in all phases of college life. As an athlete he has contributed much to Wofford's gridiron success. During the war he served as a "gob," and, though out of college a year, he returned to finish with his class. Next, behold the social lion—but we must not here enter into his social conquests. Sufficient it is to say that his conquests are many and his laurels varied. John is a man of high ideals and has always had the courage of his convictions. For such a man we can but express our greatest esteem from past associations and prophesy greatest success for the future.

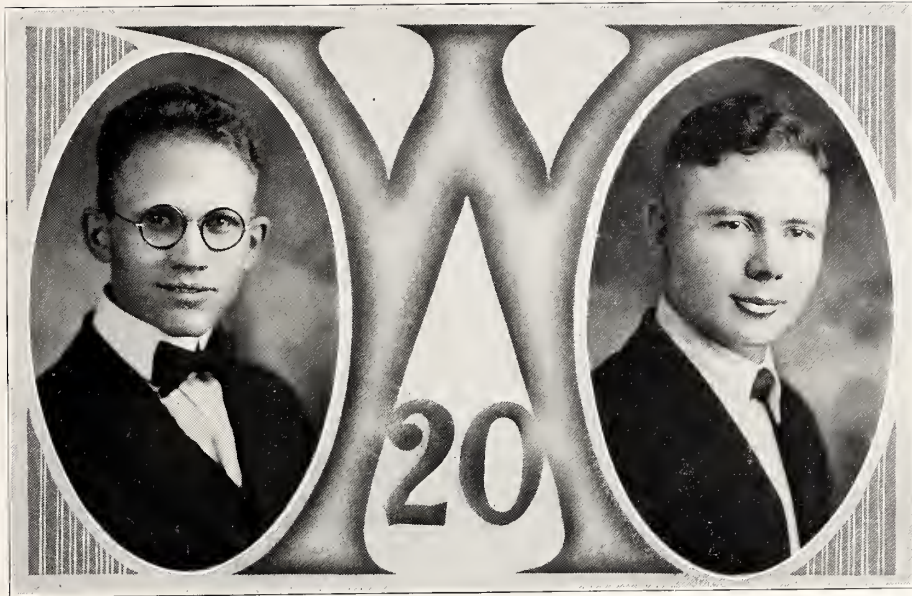

WILSON WHITEFORD SNIPES, A.B. Marion, S. C.

"To say little and perform much shows the characteristics of a great man."

Member Y. M. C. A. Cabinet, '19-'20; Second Censor, Member Appeal Committee, Carlisle Literary Society; President Marion County Club, '20; Critic Debating Club; Vice-President Epicurean Club.

To say little does not always apply to Wilson, as every member of Dr. Wallace's classes will tell you. The world admires a man who quietly and without ceremony accomplishes the duties of life and brings upon himself, by reason of his achievements, distinction and honor. Wilson is another one of those remarkable Marion County men who complete a full college course in three years. This short and unusual period has prevented him from taking an active part in many things in which he could have accomplished much. Wilson is a strong literary society worker and a forceful debater. Modest speech and manners and integrity of character are so blended as to make in him an ideal man.

WILLIAM GLENN SMITH, A.B. Spartanburg, S. C.

*"A fire-mist and a planet;
A crystal and a cell;
A jelly-fish and a saurian;
And caves where the cave-men dwell;
Then a sense of law and beauty,
And a face turned from the clod—
Some call it evolution,
But others call it—God."*

Member Ministerial Band; Vice-President Y. M. C. A., '17-'18.

The above Senior is an effectual answer to the question raised by Nathanael of Biblical fame, namely: "Can there any good thing come out of Nazareth?" In his efforts to obtain both a rudimentary and a college education he has known the spur of handicaps. He surmounted them so well, however, that in his Senior year he thought himself competent to instruct his professors. Whence Clink's oft-repeated "Hold on, Smith; church isn't out yet!"

THOMAS FRANKLIN STACKHOUSE, A.B. Marion, S. C.

"Only the brave deserve the fair."

"Stack" hails from the famous "Swamp Fox" belt. This section has been heard of before, especially in respect to speed over rough roads, either in or out. "Stack" has starred in math, English and psychology. Now we learn that he is starring in a South Atlantic League town, but not in baseball. Charlotte won second honor, but we hope that "Mule" will win first place in the heart of one of its players. We predict that after he gets his star he will cease to chase and will settle down in eastern Carolina, where he will make a name for himself selling Fords.

CHARLES MORGAN STUART, A.B. Coronaca, S. C.

"And even though vanquished he could argue still."

Recording Secretary (two terms), Second Censor, Third Critic, Junior Monthly Orator, Calhoun Literary Society; Class Football, '19-'20; Member Greenwood County Club; Member Carlisle Hall Executive Committee.

Lo! behold him who made Coronaca famous. Charlie's time was so valuable that he could ill afford to spend more than three years in college. He has been noted as a shark in math, a scholar in Latin, a devotee of German and French, and withal a sincere friend and a true gentleman. It took Charlie's strategic mind to pilot the Junior team to victory in class football. His chief delights are tennis, the "little store," and arguing with Duncan, being a skilled debater in the latter. It is rumored that Cupid has afflicted Charlie and that his thoughts frequently stray toward a certain brown-eyed lassie. Tout est bien, qui finit bien.

ROBERT LEE STUART, JR., A.B. Coronaca, S. C.

"A man is the part he plays among his fellows."

President, Vice-President, and Second Critic (two terms), Calhoun Literary Society; Secretary Senior Class; Member Carlisle Hall Executive Committee; Intercollegiate Debate Council; Second Vice-President College Council; Class Football, '16-'17, '17-'18; Varsity Football, '19-'20; Varsity Baseball, '17-'18, '18-'19, '19-'20; Block W Club '18-'19, Vice-President '19-'20; President Greenwood County Club; President Honor Council.

This amiable young man needs no introduction. 'Tis our esteemed friend, "Hard Luck," who comes to us from Coronaca. He won this title in his Freshman year, but since then he has never deserved it. He was a star in baseball, winning a block W his first year on the team. Although he did not go out for varsity football until his Senior year, he was a great asset to the team. This can be seen by the Athletic Advisory Board's awarding him a block W at the end of the season. However, he did not let these activities interfere with his college work. He was a good student, putting his best into all his undertakings, and we can safely predict a great future for our classmate.

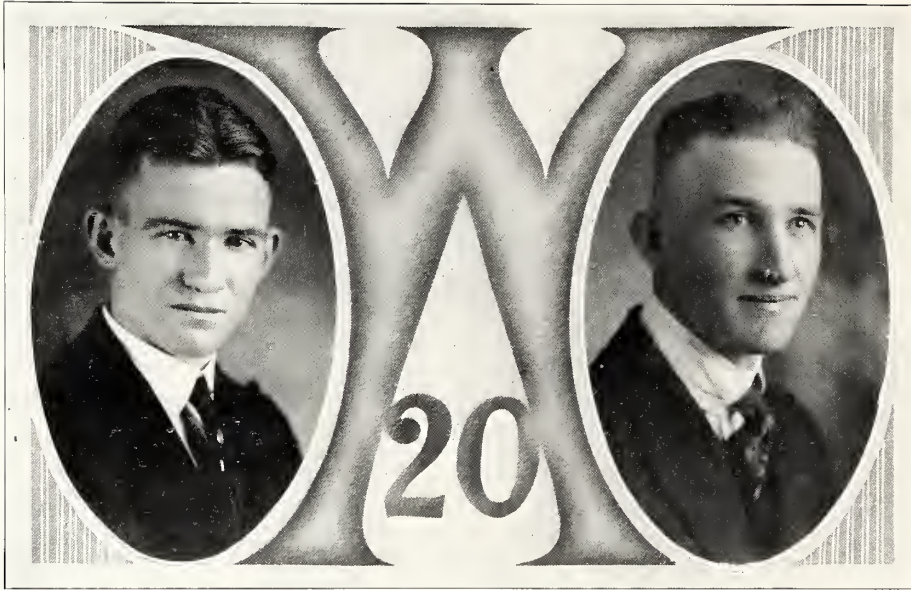

SERGEANT JOHN MITCHELL THOMAS
A. E. F.

January 15, 1896-February 1, 1919

(Died in France)

"Dulce et Decorum est pro Patria mori."

WOODROW WARD, A.B. Darlington, S. C.

"I respect all, but love none."

Vice-President Freshman Class, '15; Freshman Marshal, '15; Speaker Sophomore Exhibition, '17; President Ministerial Band, '18-'19; Assistant Literary Editor and Y. M. C. A. Editor Journal; Literary Editor Bohemian; Senior Monthly Orator, President, Vice-President, First Censor, Carlisle Literary Society; Vice-President, Treasurer, Darlington County Club; Member College Council.

Eureka! Eureka! What? The oddity of the class. Who has ever seen him with a member of the fairer sex? Don't all speak at once. Silence gives consent. Peruse this gentle face. You will find in "Woody" a true and sympathetic friend. Although he differs with you on the most important questions of life, it is only for the sake of an argument. 'Tis truly wonderful what four years of college life will do for anyone who applies himself. With that fact in mind, we feel safe in predicting a marvelous career for Woodrow in his chosen profession as a minister.

JOHN CALHOUN WATSON, A.B. Johnston, S. C.

"A truer, nobler, trustier heart, more loving or more loyal, never beat within a human breast."

Freshman Declaimer, Marshal, Monthly Orator, Treasurer, Third Censor, Second Censor, Member Finance Committee, First Censor, President, Preston Literary Society; Member Johnston Club; Vice-President Edgefield-Saluda County Club; Sophomore Speaker; Junior Debater; Senior Speaker; Member Gold Bar Club; Junior Historian, Business Manager Journal; Athletic Editor Old Gold and Black; Secretary Intercollegiate Debate Council; Member Wofford College Council; Vice-President Y. M. C. A.; Senior Football; Vice-President Carlisle Hall Executive Committee.

Watson, better known on the campus as "J. C.," with his lofty ambitions and persistent will, has made for himself a high mark in his college career. He has stood high in the class room, and in the literary society circles he has been very popular, having had several high honors conferred upon him there. The girls have taken little of his time. But, girls, look out! With that deep bass voice and captivating eloquence of his, he is sure to lasso one of the fairer sex. We predict for "J. C." a great success in life and in whatever vocation he may choose.

LOUIS BOOKER WRIGHT, A.B. Greenwood, S. C.

*"Yon Cassius has a lean and hungry look;
He thinks too much; such men are dangerous."*

First Critic Carlisle Literary Society; Vice-President Greenwood County Club; Assistant Literary Editor Bohemian, '19; Winner Journal Short Story Medal; Student Assistant in Chemistry Laboratory; Historian Senior Class.

Behold a student! Louis comes to us from Greenwood. Although small in stature, he stands out prominently as a student. He leaves behind an excellent record, especially in chemistry and English. Some day we expect to see him a chemist of nation-wide fame or a great newspaper man. Louis' personality stands out not only as a student but as a man among his fellows, for his courteous nature has made him popular among his college mates. Boys are found around him not only during examination periods, but at all times, for in him they always find a true friend. While he assumes a cynical disdain for most of the fair sex, Dame Rumor has it that a certain combination of brown eyes and black hair holds a singular attraction for him.

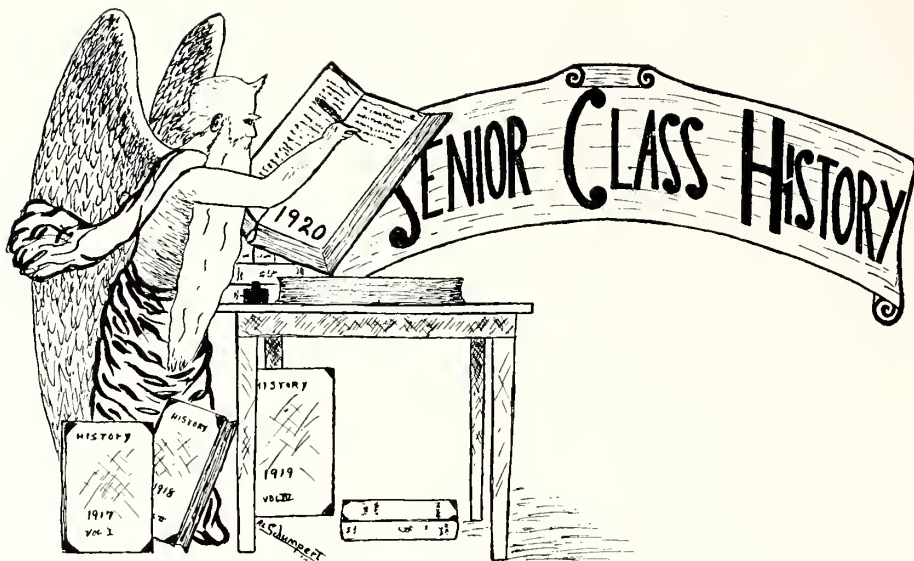

MISS MARGARET W. HENDERSON, B.A.D., Mascot Conway, S. C.

"I am glad I was up so late, for that's the reason I was up so early."

Winner Popularity Contest; Member Goat-Getters' Club; Member Midnight Revellers; President Walk-Your-Daddy Club; Delegate to Convention of Lung Exercisers; Soloist Babies' Music Club; President and Sole Member Apple-of-Mine-Eye Club; Honorary Member Shriners.

Behold the forty-second member of the Class of '20! Here is a person of versatile traits and many winning ways. Though young, she is already very popular among the boys, for two members of the Senior Class are rivals now because of her charms. But no wonder, for her daddy says that she's about the handsomest baby that ever was, and young fathers are usually right about those things. Judging by that cap you see and that knowing look, you would think that she had already crossed the desert sands.

IN the early autumn of 1916 a movement, hardly extensive enough to be called a migration, occurred which now bids fair to change the course of history and alter the destinies of nations. The above is a reference to neither war nor treaty. On September 20, 1916, eighty-six young men, dimly conscious of the density of their ignorance and having only a nebulous idea of their crudeness, had withal sufficient clarity of vision to choose Wofford College as the institution where the rough raw material of humanity should be shaped into leaders of men.

From far and near this group gathered. From the mosquito-infested jungles of Horry to the sugar plantations of Louisiana; from the vasty hills above Inman to the white sands of the seashore, came members of the Class of 1920. Not all, however, were rustics, for among that number were some from such centers of cosmopolitan culture as Pinewood, Lynchburg and Coronaca.

The Freshman year of the famous Class of '20 was a memorable one. In spite of the usual trials and tribulations of Freshman, the class managed to achieve greatness in athletics as well as in scholarly pursuits. To the Freshmen of '16 went the championship in class football, which they held until their Senior year, when with ranks depleted by recruits to the varsity, they relinquished the honor to the Class of '23.

Having few weighty affairs to administer, but in imitation of the upperclassmen, the men of '20 elected the following officers to direct them: E. C. Mitchell, President; J. G. Snelling, Vice-President; E. G. Caldwell, Secretary; H. F. Vaughn, Treasurer; A. S. King, Historian.

If as Freshmen the class had been conscious of a need of knowledge, as Sophomores they were omniscient, knowing that they knew, and endeavoring to thus impress the world and the faculty. In spite of the burden of much learning, the Class of '17 was able to furnish six varsity men in football—Carmichael, Earle, Kinney, Vaughn, H. F., Felder and Snelling. The officers of the year were: A. S. King, President; W. L. Bozeman, Vice-President; H. L. Harvin, Secretary; H. O. Stucky, Treasurer; E. C. Mitchell, Historian.

The crisis in the history of the Class of '20 was reached in its Junior year. The military situation in this country was tense. It was well nigh impossible to contentedly study musty old volumes when the country was calling for men. At that time, however, a fertile brain in Washington evolved the S. A. T. C., and no choice was left the class but to stay in school for military training under the tutelage of Uncle Sam. The following members of the class were sent to Plattsburg for military training. B. B. Bishop, W. L. Bozeman, G. A. Carlisle, B. F. Carmichael, W. W. Fant, H. L. Harvin, A. T. Moore, J. C. Watson and L. B. Wright. Of this number Fant, Carlisle, Carmichael, Harvin, Moore and Watson were commissioned. After the debacle of the S. A. T. C. following the signing of the armistice, the class elected as officers: W. L. Bozeman, President; E. C. Mitchell, Vice-President; J. H. Ready, Secretary; V. C. Earle, Treasurer; J. C. Watson, Historian.

In a large measure due to the stellar work of members of the Class of '20, Wofford captured the state baseball championship in 1919.

After three years of toil and feverish anticipation, the Class of '20 at last became known as the Senior Class. The following were elected officers of the Senior Class: B. F. Carmichael, President; E. C. Mitchell, Vice-President; R. L. Stuart, Secretary; H. L. Harvin, Treasurer; J. W. Philips, Prophet; R. W. Davis, Poet; L. B. Wright, Historian. A. S. King was chosen Editor-in-Chief of the BOHEMIAN; B. F. Carmichael, business manager. E. C. Mitchell was elected Editor-in-Chief of the Old Gold and Black, with H. L. Harvin as business manager. For the Journal, A. S. King was elected Editor-in-Chief and J. C. Watson, business manager.

The Class of '20 has always been distinguished in athletics. Earle, Stuart, R. L., Bozeman, Carmichael Phillips, H. R., Davis, R. W., and Snelling were varsity football men. E. C. Mitchell was manager. In baseball, J. W. Potts, manager; Stuart, R. L., Bozeman and Carmichael were varsity men. In basketball, Bozeman was manager; Neighbor, Johnson, H. G., and Earle made varsity.

And now, as the active life of the Senior Class as a unit is drawing to a close, we can realize in retrospect what an eventful four years it has been. Never in the history of the college has a class faced greater odds and survived. Beginning its career in the third year of the World War, the Class of '20 lived through the turmoil and excitement of the war, contributing to every phase of war work in every possible way. With the exception of five men, who, on account of their youth or other sufficient reason, were prevented, every member of the class was in some branch of the military service of the United States when the war closed. One of the class, F. L. Fitzsimmons, was twice cited for bravery and given the naval medal for valor for meritorious conduct while fighting with the Marines in France.

On the service flag of the class there is one gold star. One member gave his life for his country and lies sleeping under the sunny skies of France. J. M. Thomas, of Spartanburg, enlisted in the military service in his Freshman year and was among the first to go overseas. Falling a victim to disease in a training camp in France, he made the supreme sacrifice, and was numbered among those whose memory Wofford most sacredly honors.

In spite of the war, unrest and disorder, forty-one of the original eighty-six men are left to receive diplomas. Though sorely tried, the Class of '20 has remained true to high ideals, and it will ever be their steadfast endeavor to prove themselves constructive leaders of men in the uncertain period of readjustment now facing them.

LOUIS B. WRIGHT, Historian.

Senior Class Prophecy

PERHAPS the modernism of the twentieth century is in no way more clearly evident than through the devotion of the American body politic to the silent drama. The tired business man seeking surcease from the humdrum labors of an ever-busy business world finds mental solace and spiritual rejuvenation through the agency of photographic bronco-busting and highly specialized cattle thieving. New York's Hippodrome, formerly the nesting place of thousands of membered chorus productions, no longer echoes the gay songs of bacchus-inspired jollity, but rather preserves a contemplative silence through the benign influence of the world's greatest photoplay production. The entrances preserved for the use of capacity houses have been flung wide to accommodate the eager expectancy of multitudes of impatient patrons.

The American mind enshrines the form of genius and under no conditions is this, the rarest of all human traits, more apparent than amid that distinguished coterie, the Wofford College Class of 1920. At no other time in the history of the accomplishments of the race has interest so completely centered about a distinguished body of kindred spirits. The Oxonian poets fade into pallid obscurity by comparison with this immortal group. It is therefore but natural that the ever-active commercial eye of the American photoplay producer has sought to capitalize the distinction of the above-mentioned gentlemen through the agency of photoplay.

Newsboys proclaim, hucksters shout, and flaming billboards announce the exhibition of intimate scenes from the lives and works of the greatest figures of American public interest, universally known as "The Wofford Group."

Preceding the appearance of the film, the announcement is made from the stage as follows:

"Ladies and gentlemen: The purpose of the producer of the world's greatest photographic accomplishment is to bring before the American public intimate scenes from the daily life and work of America's greatest public figures. The appearance of each singular figure upon the scene is preceded by a brief biographic sketch."

The title of the picture appears on the screen—"Intimate Scenes from the Lives of 'The Wofford Group'."

"Produced under the personal direction of J. W. Potts, at Universal City, Cal., in the year 1940."

The tale of genius unfolds:

B. B. BISHOP, V.D., R.D., H.D., C.P.

Barney Bishop, known to science as Bonifocus Broschitock Butentot, veterinarian, root and herb doctor of international fame, has just completed the discovery of the only sure hair restorer, and is here shown as special medical advisor to the Bolsheviki in Russia. A voluminous-haired individual is shown conducting a proof of his recent scientific statement to the effect that hair can be made to grow on billiard balls.

W. L. BOZEMAN, MANAGER OF THE CHICAGO CUBS

Through the assignment of a number of the leading stars of the Terriers' squad, which has held the college title for the past five years, Manager Bozeman has just successfully made a clean sweep in the world series, having won four consecutive victories. He is here shown instructing "Rip" Major, a new prospect, in the art of sliding to first base.

G. A. CARLISLE, MODISTE—PARIS

The interior of a largon salon appears, ornamented with silken tapestries and costly hangings. G. A. Carlisle is shown in conference with his business associate, Lady Duff-Gordon.

B. F. CARMICHAEL, PUGILIST, BROOKLYN

Having defeated Dempsey and Carpentier and thereby capturing the ring title of the world, "Mike" has issued a challenge to any prehistoric dinosaur now extant. A familiar bulldog grin, almost obscured beneath a fruitful crop of eyebrows, brings to mind the career of the erstwhile Chemistry 1 "shark."

O. G. DANIEL

As a result of an unsuccessful attempt to deliver a Ford automobile by air route to the moon, Mr. Daniel has discovered a means of communication with Mars, through the application of the principle of reflected light. Daniel is exhibited frantically manipulating prisms and levers in an effort to gain intelligence of the result of a pool tourney for the championship of Mars and its satellites.

R. W. "SAUSAGE" DAVIS

The Mack-Sennet Movie Comedy Co. announces that they have just secured the services of the world's champion sausage eater, and that scenes from the career of this gentleman will be made at Carlisle Hall, Spartanburg, S. C. A rotund individual is exhibited consuming, without apparent inconvenience, the product of a sausage factory.

A. J. DILLARD, PREMIER CABARET DANCER

Mr. Dillard, through the perfection of the tickle-toe innovation, has arisen to the topmost rungs of terpsichorean success. A scene appears from the Casino. One clad in black silk tights, poised upon his left toe, his arms extended, his right limb drooped gracefully about his neck, appears. His jaw protrudes. A physician, mistaking his facial contortions for an absessing tooth, rushes toward him in an offer of assistance. "No, Doctor," he replies, "it isn't toothache, it's climax."

V. C. EARLE, VELOCIPED MAGNATE

"Tub" is exhibited conducting a demonstration of his latest three-wheeled family velocipede with side-door attachments for nurse and butler.

H. H. ELLIS

This gentleman has proven to the world that perseverance and patience will conquer, and a cold chill is sent through the audience when a band of many thousand giant-sized cannibals, scantily clad and ferociously attired, are shown in the heart of the African jungles, dancing as if on the war path. But to our relief as well as astonishment, we learn that they are only doing homage to their chieftain, H. H. Ellis, who has labored among them for the past ten years.

W. W. FANT, D.S., HONORARY D.D.

As the result of a remarkable experiment, Dr. Fant has discovered a means of bottling the heat of the sun's rays for future use, and one may now purchase a bottle of heat for a dime, take it home, and by simply removing the stopper, heat his entire room. Dr. Fant is shown demonstrating his new discovery, which he personally uses in large quantities as a foot warmer.

F. L. FITZSIMONS, ATTORNEY FOR LICGETT & MYERS

Couched behind and completely encircled by a winding stairway of books, over which is suspended a rope ladder, we recognize our old-time Epicurean seated on the floor, feet slightly apart and elevated toward the ceiling, deeply absorbed in the question, "Which came first, the hen or the egg?"

J. C. FOWLER, FARM IMPLEMENT MAGNATE

Fowler's combination wood saw, harrower, cotton picker, ginner, and incubator, with special milking-machine attachment, has done much to secure the success of the Southern farmer. His plants cover twenty city blocks. John is portrayed perched upon a three-legged stool attaching his automatic milker.

S. W. GABLE, NATIONAL FOOD ADMINISTRATOR

This gentleman is shown investigating the case of "Sausage" Davis, "World's Champion Sausage Eater," who is charged with hoarding food.

T. G. GASQUE, COTTON KING

This gentleman, known from New Orleans to Liverpool as "The Cotton King," has announced that he has located some land in South Carolina that will produce five bales of cotton to the acre and average four crops a year. The announcement is followed by the appearance of an individual of rustic cast with his arms thrown affectionately about the neck of an ox.

H. L. HARVIN, PECAN KING

Twenty years ago this man planted an acre of pecans. Through the success of a cross pollination experiment, his holdings cover a large section of the lower part of South Carolina, and he is looked upon as one of those distinguished Southern gentlemen who can make grass grow on Wall Street. He is exhibited treating his complexion with pecan oil.

H. W. JOHNSON, PRESIDENT BRUNSWICKE-BALKE-COLLENDER CO.

Hon. H. W. Johnson, affectionately known as "Successor to John D. Rockefeller," has gained complete control of the Brunswicke-Balke-Collender Co., and is here shown demonstrating the high quality of the products of his company by running two thousand points with his eyes blindfolded.

H. G. JOHNSON, DEMONSTRATOR FOR SPALDING ATHLETIC CO.

This gentleman has just been declared the champion "Rummy" player of the world, and because of his popularity, his services have been secured by Spalding as chief demonstrator of their famous athletic goods. He is here shown parading down Fifth Ave., New York, in a one-piece bathing suit.

A. S. KING, JUVENILE COURT JUDGE OF LUENKINSVILLE, NEW MEXICO

The pictorial sketch at this point assumes a rustic hue. One may almost imagine the purling of brooks and the singing of birds amid this scene of beauty. Judge King is perched high on a soap box, administering, with partial justice, the opinions of the law.

E. H. KING, DIRECTOR OF FUND FOR HOMELESS BELGIANS

Through the untiring efforts of this gentleman, $100,000,000 has just been pledged by the entire nation to care for the homeless Belgians who have immigrated to this country in the past twenty years. He is here shown diligently searching in an effort to find some of those above-mentioned unfortunate ones.

M. W. LEVER, PRESIDENT OF THE HOLY ROLLER SYNOD OF AMERICA

Rev. Lever has united several thousand faithful followers from among all sections of the country, and he announces that they are to enter upon a crusade to include the African natives among their number. He is here shown conducting a group of his followers in their regular evening exercise.

E. C. MITCHELL, DISCOVERER OF THE FOURTH DIMENSION

This elongated individual has upset all of the laws of science and mathematics, and as a result, the heavens and "all that there is therein" will have to be made over to comply with his notions. He is here shown exhibiting a few volumes of his text-books, which will have to be adopted in all institutions of learning.

A. T. MOORE, WORLD-FAMED MUSICIAN

This gentleman has achieved his reputation through that world-famed group of operatic artists, THE WOFFORD COLLEGE GLEE CLUB AND JAZZ ORCHESTRA, of which Mr. Moore is leader. He has also supplanted Caruso, not only through the possession of a particularly shrill tenor voice, but in addition, through his ability to excel that gentleman in the matter of the consumption of spaghetti. Moore appears before a large audience whose enthusiasm is exhibited in their applause of his latest concert success, "Sweet Jelly Roll."

R. W. NEIGHBOUR, MANUFACTURER OF CANNED LYE

The product for which this gentleman is famous, "Neighbour's Own Lye," is guaranteed to remove any existing doubt on any subject in the mind of any man. The photograph appears with Neighbour comparing a large-sized piece of his patent product with a similar slice of limburger cheese.

P. S. PEEPLES, FAMOUS AUTHOR

This gentleman, between suns, emerged from the insignificance of comparative obscurity to the Olympian heights of success through the authorship of that remarkable lyric ballad entitled, "You Ain't Forgot Your Sweet Papa Siberia." The appearance of this gentleman is greeted with vociferous applause. He appears with a book of verse in his right hand and attempting to subdue a turbulent poodle dog with his left.

G. D. PETTIT

This gentleman has proven to the world that "LUCK IS BETTER THAN SCIENCE." Fifteen minutes after arriving in Monaco, he succeeded in breaking up the bank of Monte Carlo, and the Prince of Monaco has abdicated his throne in his favor. The inhabitants of that place declare that he is a "regular fellow" however, and he is here shown amusing his subjects as "successor to Al Jolson."

H. R. PHILLIPS, DIRECTOR OF PHILLIPS' BAND

Through a recent astute business policy, this gentleman has absorbed the interests of a rival organization, namely the Ministerial Band. Phillips appears listlessly dangling a piccolo from his lower lip.

WILSON PHILLIPS, DIRECTOR OF THE EMERSON SCHOOL OF ORATORY

There is hardly a suffragette of imminence in public affairs today who does not owe her success to the gift of this eloquent silver-tongued orator. He is here shown directing a class of prospective suffragettes in the "delicate" points of articulation.

J. H. READY, FRENCH DEPARTMENT, HARVARD UNIVERSITY

As dean of the Department of French at Harvard, Dr. Ready has greatly stimulated matrimonial affiliations between the two countries. The picture shows him scolding a pupil for marring the pages of her book with unattractive pencil marks.

V. M. ROGERS, CATTLE KING

Through a matrimonial affiliation, Mr. Rogers has established connections with the far West, having become enamoured of a spurred daughter of the golden hills. He is here exhibited placing a brand upon the back of a protesting shorthorn.

R. H. ROLLINGS

The Mid-Night Follies announce the securing of the services of "Rooter" Rollings. He performs at the conclusion of each dance. The gentleman in question is exhibited suspended by the left foot from a drop-light and blowing bubbles to an old lady of haughty carriage in one of the lower boxes.

J. G. SNELLING, JR.

As Governor of Mississippi, this gentleman was a complete failure, but by so changing the course of the Mississippi River as to include one-half of the State of Louisiana in the possessions of his own State, he is now the idol of his day, down in that section. He is here shown looking over a probable site for the new location of New Orleans.

W. G. SMITH, EDITOR OF "THE PSYCHOLOGIST"

The reforms started by this gentleman in connection with the incorrect use of technical and useless psychological words, have resulted in a complete reformation of Webster's International Encyclopedia, so as to conform with the "intelligence of serious-minded people." He is exhibited scratching the summit of his syncopated countenance in an effort to excite a new idea for reform.

W. W. SNIPES, POULTRY FANCIER

The above-mentioned gentleman has done much to reduce the high cost of food by flooding the market with eggs. He accomplished this by equipping his barnyards with electric lights, so as to cause the fowls to work overtime.

T. F. STACKHOUSE, OWNER OF WILD WEST SHOW

A scene from the "GREATEST SHOW ON EARTH, MOON OR MARS" is exhibited, and it is explained that the name "Stackhouse" always means "Stacked clear to the doors," because of the fact that he is the world's foremost publicity agent.

R. L. STUART, DIRECTOR OF THE GIRLS' PROTECTIVE LEAGUE

"Hardluck" Stuart has spent the past fifteen years in the slums of our great cities throughout the country, sympathizing with the unfortunate ones who are found there. After visiting every point of interest throughout Europe and the Orient, he drifted down into Africa, where he was recently married. He is here shown rescuing an unfortunate girl from the hands of a native, who turns out to be her husband.

C. M. STUART

"Little" Stuart, known as the smallest shortstop in the big league, has just been signed by Manager Bozeman for his famous Chicago Cubs aggregation, Stuart being the highest salaried member of the squad. He is here shown standing on stilts catching a hot grounder.

WOODROW WARD

Finding his labors unprofitable and his warnings unheeded, this gentleman resigned the pastorate of a church at Tucapau, S. C., with the intention of becoming a missionary to the heathen. He was subsequently elected to the United States Senate. After ten years of uneventful labor in this field, he finally secured the conversion of the Republican minority, resulting in the immediate ratification of the peace treaty, without reservations.

J. C. WATSON, STATESMAN AND DIPLOMAT

Senator Watson, leader of the opposition in the upper legislative house of Arizona, appears on the screen in robes of ermine, vigorously prosecuting the case against the "Dill Pickle Trust," which he describes as a great menace to the "Prune Growers' Association."

L. B. WRIGHT, CHIEF OF BOLL WEEVIL ERADICATION BUREAU

As chief of the Boll Weevil Eradication Bureau, this gentleman has succeeded in destroying every boll weevil pest in the South. He is here shown demonstrating his "sure to kill" weevil apparatus. The weevil is placed between two bricks of smooth surface and by simply rubbing them together the animal never fails to disappear.

* * * * *

A scene is flashed upon the screen exhibiting the members of the above-mentioned class banqueting together at a reunion occasion at the Waldorf-Astoria, New York. The room is a medley of subdued light and soft colorings. Pussyfooted waiters move with noiseless tread, bearing burdens of smoking viands and goblets gleaming golden in the half light of sasparilla. A telegraph messenger approaches the outer entrance. A message is carried to the president. With bated breath the members hear him. He reads:

"The anti-Bolshevik forces have taken Tanlac, and I am fleeing the city. My touring car has been attached and I am fleeing across Siberia on a clay bank mule.

"With regrets,

"B. B. BISHOP."

* * * * *

The tumult and the shouting dies. Where once there was joy, gloom prevails. The members arise. Individually and by groups, they depart.

Junior Class History

WHETHER we will or not we are making history. The small acts and events of our lives today become tomorrow our history. As with one individual, so it is with any group of individuals.

On the morning of September 19, 1917, there arrived on the campus of Wofford one hundred and two young men from all walks of life and different localities, for the purpose of enrolling in this noble and historical institution. In the state of disorganization in which we found ourselves we soon realized the need of officers. So we elected the following: L. E. Purdy, President; J. K. Hodges, Vice-President; S. G. Jones, Secretary; R. C. Lucas, Treasurer, and A. H. Best, Historian. The wisdom of our selection was shown by the manner in which they attended to their respective duties.

Our class made a very commendable record in literary work. It is agreed that our Freshman Exhibition was the best held in many years. Not only did we excel in literary lines, but athletic as well.

Great changes were in store for us when we arrived our second year. The college was under military control. No longer was seen the easy-going, carefree student. In his place was the quick, alert, and thoughtful student-soldier. We were fitting ourselves for the World War under a corps of efficient officers. Then came the glad news of November 11th that we were no longer at war. On the 9th of December we were disbanded.

The Sophomore Class that assembled the first of January, 1919, had decreased, for various reasons, to sixty-two in number. The officers who had been elected the last of the previous year were: A. H. Best, Jr., President; J. C. Martin, Vice-President; W. P. Hood, Secretary; L. Krasnoff, Treasurer, and H. F. Duncan, Historian. As Best and Krasnoff did not return, we elected C. B. Smith President and L. E. Purdy Treasurer to take their places. The literary exhibitions, which had been interfered with by military training, did not come up to the usual standard.

Our officers for the Junior year were as follows: W. P. Hood, President; H. F. Duncan, Vice-President; C. G. King, Secretary; B. B. Oliver, Treasurer, and J. K. Hodges, Historian. Our most notable achievement this year was the defeating of the Sophomore football team.

With great hopes we look forward to what the future has in store.

J. K. HODGES, Historian.

Sophomore Class History

SEPTEMBER 26, 1918, a remarkable bunch of Freshmen entered Wofford College. They possessed a combination of fear, freshness, and ambition. October 1st the government assumed control of the college. The class could not, therefore, organize until after the S. A. T. C. had disbanded. The following men were then elected officers: T. F. Cook, President; R. D. Zimmerman, Jr., Vice-President; J. B. Berry, Secretary; J. R. Medlock, Treasurer; J. H. Brabham, Historian. In our first year we furnished one man for the varsity football and had the unique record of being without a single ministerial student.

However, the lay students displayed wonderful oratorical ability at the Freshman Exhibition. The following men spoke: C. F. Barlow, T. J. Herbert, J. C. Holler, J. O. Smith and F. S. Snyder. The medal was won by J. O. Smith. The class also furnished a number of men for the Glee Club.

The present officers of the class are: J. O. Smith, President; T. J. Herbert, Vice-President; E. C. Kirkland, Secretary; Paul Knox, Historian.

Owing to the unsettled state of affairs in the political and social horizon during our first two years, we have not accomplished as much in a literary way as we wished. Consequently, we look forward to a more romantic and honorable future. The class entered at a time when wonderful changes were being wrought. The greatest war known to civilization was raging, and the future history of the world was in the making.

Although the Freshman year was filled with many and hard experiences, which will never be forgotten, the Sophomore year affords just as many. The class has now decreased to only fifty, but there is truth in the old dictum that the survivors are the fittest. We are no longer under the domineering rule of the Sophomores, for we are Sophomores ourselves, and have not failed to use our privileges and traditional prerogatives to become better acquainted with the Freshmen.

Freshman Class History

MODERN progress is a natural development of human experience. If we take this as our criterion, the Freshman Class may be said to have begun its ascent of the height of advancement. For our experiences have been manifold. On the morning of September 17th we assembled in the college chapel with proud and expectant hearts, yet not without some forebodings and misgivings. It was there that we realized that we were no longer high school boys, but college men with high and noble purposes.

We began the year's work with an earnest zeal in the class room as well as on the athletic field. We have been successful, as our record will show. The Class of '23 has been particularly successful in athletics. We furnished four men for the varsity football squad, and we bid fair all along to furnish the Wofford gridiron with some of the best material that it has ever had. We defeated the Juniors and Seniors in class football and won the class championship.

During the early part of the fall we met and elected the following officers: President, J. R. Adams; Vice-President, J. D. Parler; Secretary, R. B. Herbert; Treasurer, M. F. Kinard; Historian, W. L. Staley.

Though the most of our history is yet to be made, we are resolved to finish in a laudable manner our first year in college and to make each succeeding one more successful than it.

DR. J. P. MAJOR
Athletic Coach

Athletics, 1920

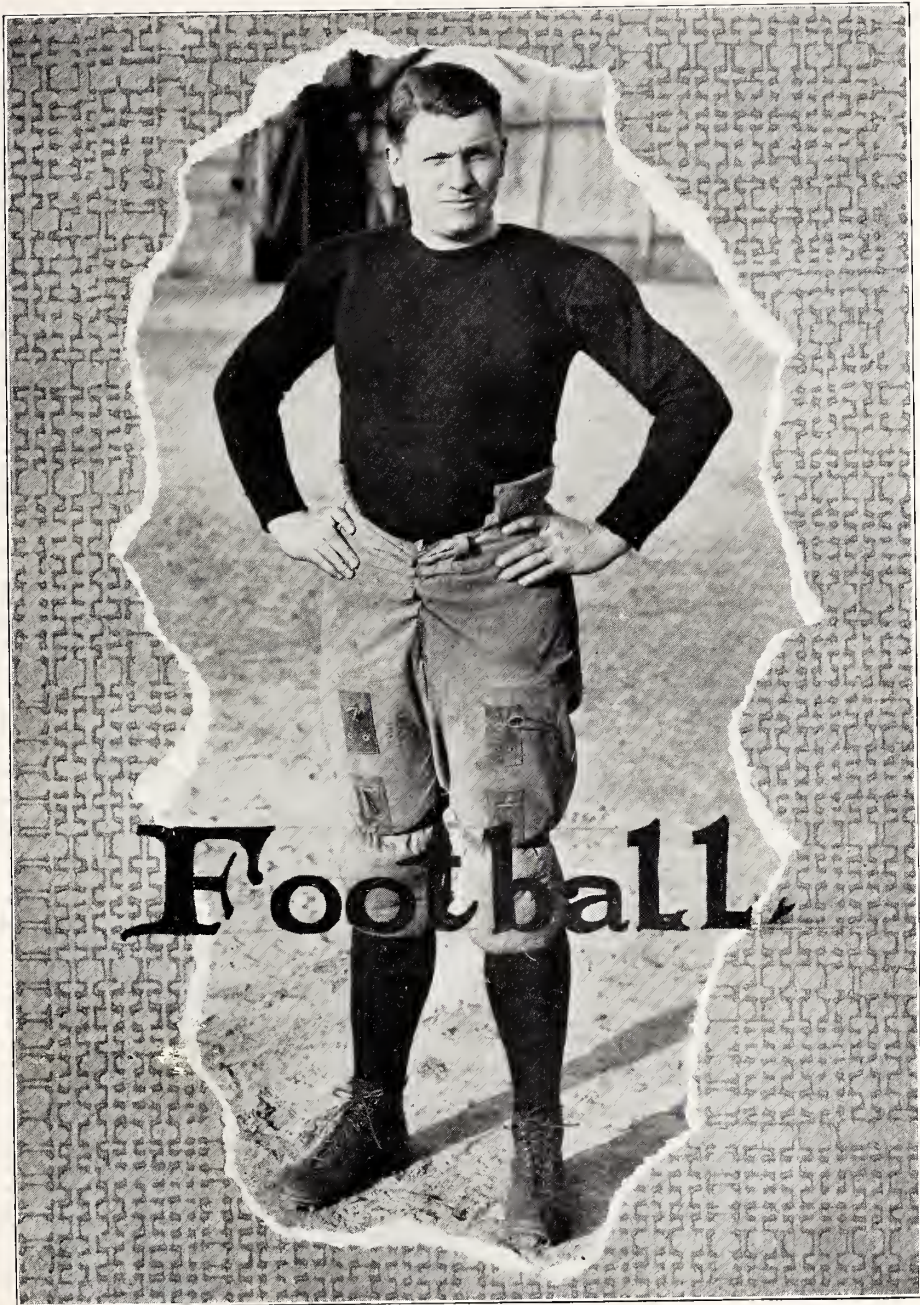

THE year 1919-1920 was one of the most successful in athletics that Wofford has had in several years, this being due mostly to the efforts of Coach Major. Coach is an old Auburn man and represented his Alma Mater in all branches of athletics, but specialized in football, baseball, basketball and track. While at Auburn he was selected on the All-Southern football team for two years in succession. After leaving school he played professional baseball for a few years, being forced to retire on account of an injury which he received while playing with Montgomery in the Southern League.

At the first call for football practice in September about forty men were on the scene to show their ability as gridiron artists. As there were only three block letter men among the number the squad had to be built around these men. In the first game of the season our inexperience was shown when we played Guilford College to a 6 to 6 tie. After this game our weak points were taken up and we journeyed over to Greenville to meet our ancient rival, Furman. Here the Terriers played the best game of the season, but we got the short end of the bargain by a 7 to 6 score. Next the "Bull Dogs," representing the Citadel, and the Terrier eleven showed exceptionally fine class and came out with a 12 to 0 victory. At the County Fair we swamped the Erskine eleven to the tune of 19 to 0. Next in order came Newberry, which was easily defeated by the score of 27 to 0. The last game of the season was played at Clinton with the fast Presbyterian College eleven, the Terriers being defeated 13 to 6. Due to some misunderstanding, we did not play a game on Thanksgiving Day.

With three of last year's letter men and about fifteen new candidates we began to practice basketball. The squad this year was not as heavy as usual, but what they lacked in weight was made up in speed and fighting spirit. For our first state game we journeyed over to try our ability with the Clemson Tigers. They are hard to beat, especially on their home court, but we took them in camp by the tune of 40 to 39. One week later we defeated the fast Blue Stockings from the Presbyterian College by the score of 44 to 36. On February 23d and 24th we played Davidson and the University of South Carolina on our home court, losing to Davidson and winning from Carolina. Next we went to Newberry and P. C., which proved disastrous to us, as we dropped both games. We were defeated at Newberry, 22 to 21, and at P. C. by the score of 53 to 26. Due to the quarantine of influenza, several games had to be canceled, thus making the season shorter than usual.

The season of 1919 showed what the Terriers could do in baseball. F. R. Ellerbe, now with the Washington American League Club, coached us for two weeks before leaving for his spring training camp. After his departure the squad was turned over to Captain A. B. Rivers, who in turn led us to the state championship. We defeated every team in the state either one or more times, and ended the season with a percentage of .786. With seven letter man back and under the direction of Coach Major we hope to have even a better team than last year when the 1920 season opens, February 29, 1920.

FOOTBALL TEAM

SQUAD IN ACTION

V. C. EARLE, Center, Captain

Captain Earle weighs about 175 pounds and plays center. He has played with the Terriers for four years and was one of the steadiest men that Wofford had this year. He is strong on both offense and defense and well deserved the honor of being Captain of the best team that Wofford has had since football was reinstated. He was unable to play in any of the games towards the close of the season on account of a knee which was injured in the game with Furman. Wofford loses a good man in Earle and the football team especially.

B. F. CARMICHAEL, Halfback

"Mike" is known over all these regions as one of the greatest assets of the Terriers for three years. He made his Block when a Sophomore and has added one star. His ability to run with the ball and to tackle hard and sure has made him a very valuable man. His speed and headwork made him a dangerous man to the opponents on both offense and defense. He was one of our steadiest ground gainers. We are hoping that "Mike" will return next year to finish his fourth year. In him we lose a very valuable man.

R. C. LUCAS, End

"Bob" is a veteran of last year's varsity and is a "Wearer of the W" in both baseball and football. He is a tower of strength at end and there were very few plays that got by him. He has a good head and is a clear thinker always. He treated the fans this year with some of the prettiest tackling that has ever been seen at Wofford Park. Lucas is well deserving of the honor of leading the 1920 Terriers and we are sure that under his leadership they will be the "best yet." "Bob" tips the scales at 175 pounds.

E. H. TATUM, Tackle

"Bevo," as most of the boys know him, is a veteran of last year's team and was back this year in his old position. His 180 pounds added considerably to the weight of the line and his ability and knowledge of the game added to the value of it. He keeps his head and plays a hard game throughout. Besides his work in the line, he was used in criss-cross plays and was always as dependable there as elsewhere. His educated toe added the extra point on nearly every occasion. He well deserves the honor of Assistant Captain next year, for he has worked hard for the honor of the Terrier eleven.

E. L. WRIGHT, End

"Puss" is a veteran of the squad of '17 and is one of the best-known men that the Methodist can boast of. He has played every position except quarterback, but was used at end during the last three or four games. His 180 pounds could always be counted upon to respond with all of its strength to any play and he works hard and willingly all the time. He was a mainstay of the Terriers during the entire season. He has one more year of college football and we are expecting great things from him next year.

B. R. TURNIPSEED, Halfback

"Turnip," playing his first year of college ball, has been a star. His fleetness of foot and ability as a sidestepper make him a broken field runner of no mean ability. When given a fair chance in an open field, he is very hard to overtake. His ability as a defensive man was well shown in each game where he made beautiful tackles and no doubt saved us several touchdowns. His kicking was a feature of each game. With a good head, speed, and grit, he bids fair to accomplish great things on the "grid."

G. T. LEONARD, Guard

"Dutch" is a stockily-built lad weighing around 175 pounds. He has the old fighting spirit and always opens up a hole in the line when called upon to do so. He plays excellent ball on both offense and defense and gets into nearly every play. He is a mainstay in the Terrier line. This is Leonard's second year in football, and with the same old fight next year, he will undoubtedly be the mainstay of the line again. He will be with us again next year and is certain of adding a star to his "Block."

ROY MOORE, Guard

Roy was the heaviest man in the Terrier uniform this year. He tops the scales at a little over 200 pounds. He is noted on the gridiron for his fighting spirit and always gives his opponent as much as he can handle. He knows the art of going through the line and making a hole through which the back-field men made good gains. With two more years of college football ahead of him, he bids fair to being the best in the State. A great share of the credit for the success of the team belongs to Roy.

GEORGE OSBORNE, Guard

George was our other guard who balanced the scales around 200 pounds. He is a Spartanburg boy and knows the game. At guard, he is a steady linesman and always displays plenty of fight and "never die" spirit in the game. This is his first year on the team, and because of his steadiness and hard work, he bids fair to become a real star next year. When called upon, George never failed to respond, and always took good care of the man who was playing opposite him.

H. R. PHILLIPS, Fullback

In Phillips we have a genuine football player. In the games that he played, his playing was a feature. He plays a steady, consistent game at all times and showed up well. But in the Citadel game he had his ankle hurt and was unable to play but a small part of the remaining games. This is his Senior year and we regret to lose him, for he is a very valuable man.

W. L. BOZEMAN, End

Bozeman is another of the Senior stars which were discovered this year. During his first three years, he has been content with class football and varsity baseball, but this year he decided to go out and try to get another "Block." Weighing around 160 pounds, he was a terror to the opponents on defense. A good head and hard playing won for him his other "Block." He played in practically every game and was always in the play from beginning to end. Bozeman was undoubtedly one of the best that we had and could always be depended upon to respond when it was his time to act.

R. L. STUART, Halfback

"Hard Luck" is a fast halfback, with plenty of dash and spirit. While not very heavy, weighing close to 150 pounds, he ploughed his way to good gains, and on defense was one of the best that we had. He made his tackles sure and clean and didn't mind making them. In the Newberry game he suffered a slight injury, but recovered in time to give the others a good time. He is a Senior and in him we lose one of our best.

S. G. JONES, Quarterback

Although Sam weighs only about 140 lbs., he has made quite a name for himself as a gridiron star. He always ran the team with the best of judgment and could carry the ball well. This is Sam's second year on the varsity and he is a "Wearer of the W." Jones was unable to play the first three games of the season, but when he did come back, the other side knew it. We are entertaining great hopes for Jones next year.

A. B. SKELTON, Tackle

Coming from the "City of Success," Bouie lived up to the reputation of his city. Weighing 170 pounds, he was no doubt one of the strongest and best tackles in the State during the past season. He is every inch a man, and in every game opened the way for successful plays through the line. On defense he can be counted on to get his man if given a fair chance at him. He is a hard worker and never gives up until the last whistle. Bouie works hard whether the team is winning or losing, and if there is anything happening on his side of the line, he can be counted on to be in it.

A. T. MOORE, Tackle

"A. T." is a very dependable man in the Wofford line. He plays either guard or tackle with equal efficiency, but was used at the latter position most of the season. On account of injuries, he was unable to play in some of the games, but he could be counted upon as a most reliable man on both offense and defense. "A. T." is noted for his ability to get through and get his man. We lose a good man as he leaves this year. He weighs about 175.

M. S. GLEATON, Center

Gleaton is probably one of the best linemen in the State. He played center during Earle's absence on account of injuries, and always showed real fighting spirit. He worked as if this was his regular position. He drives hard and plays a good game on both offense and defense. Without Gleaton, the Wofford team would not have been the success that it was, for he was a tower of strength in the line. His 175 pounds could always be depended upon and he was always in the fight.

J. G. SNELLING, Quarterback

John is a veteran of the 1917 Terrier eleven and went good in every game that he played. He plays hard, has a good head, and is a terror on defense. His speed makes him valuable on end runs and he passes well. This is John's Senior year and he leaves us, we feel, without a fair chance to demonstrate his ability. During the entire season he was greatly handicapped. We lose in him a valuable man.

R. W. DAVIS, End

"Saucerage" is a Senior, but this is his first year of varsity ball. He was one of the best defensive ends on the Wofford team and played a part of all the games that we played this year. He puts up a steady fight all the time and was instrumental in breaking up many of our opponents' plays. He hails from a football town and he kept up the good record of Darlington. Davis was handicapped during the season on account of an injured arm, but he worked the harder to overcome it.

H. G. JOHNSON, Captain and Forward

"Nib" is our captain and well deserves the honor by his good generalship and goal-shooting. He is one of the three Seniors which make up the quintet and will not be able to show his ability after this season. "Nib" can be used either as a forward or as a guard, but is best suited as a forward because he knows how to shoot. When a few points are needed he is generally close around to throw the ball in the ring for two points. He is also on the job when it comes to shooting fouls. "Nib" is noted for his passing.

SIMEON HECKLIN, Forward

"Heck" is not only one of the best forwards in the State, but is the best. He is fast and knows the game from beginning to end. "Heck" gives all the guards in the State a good time and always comes out of the game with a big score by his name on the score-book. He is light, but makes up for weight by speed. "Heck's" ability as a passer is also unsurpassed by any college forward in the State. He will be back with the Terrier quintet again next year.

R. W. NEIGHBOUR, Center

Ray hails from the City of Success and is the tallest man on the squad, so he chose the position of center. He is a good jumper and has the "tip off" on most of his opponents. He is there when it comes to shooting goals, because he shoots from all angles of the floor and he can't miss. He showed up exceptionally well on long shots. Ray is a Senior and will not be back with us next year.

H. E. DILLINGHAM, Guard

To "Dillie," our midget guard, is due much for the success of the Wofford five. He is small, but he sticks to a big forward as if he weighed 200 pounds. When no one else is close around the basket you will see "Dillie" sticking close to toss the ball in the ring. He is a good dribbler and passer and can not be beaten as a running guard. As he knows how to shoot he is frequently used as a forward. This is his first year on the team and he bids fair to make one of the best guards that has ever represented the Wofford clan in basketball.

V. C. EARLE, Guard

Vernon, or "Coach," as most of the boys call him, also hails from the "City of Success," as most of the others on the squad. Vernon has been one of the main standbys at guard for the last three years and is back on the old job again. Due to an injury which he received in football, he was not able to take part in all the games this season. He is strong, reliable, and can always be depended upon to break up the teamwork of his opponents. Vernon is a Senior and will not be back next year.

DUREN JENNINGS, Guard

Jennings showed his ability as a basketball man this year. No matter how the score stood he was always in the game from beginning to end. By his good headwork and close guarding he won a position on the Terrier quintet. Besides being a good floor man he was a clever shot and a good dribbler. Jennings was noted for his good team work and clever passing. This was his first year in basketball and he will be back with the Terriers next season.

REVIEW OF SCHOOL YEAR, 1919-1920

THE Reserve Officers' Training Corps Unit was organized at Wofford College, October 18th, 1919, with an enrollment of one hundred and eight members. A tactical organization of one battalion and two companies was formed for all practical purposes, and for theoretical instruction the Unit was subdivided into five sections of approximately twenty men each.

After the organization of the battalion, practical instruction was taken up in the School of the Soldier, Squad, Platoon, and Company, two hours per week; and one hour was devoted to classroom work and instruction in subjects covered in Infantry Drill Regulations up to the School of the Battalion.

With the opening of the new semester, the battalion was reorganized, with Cadet Johnston, O. D., as Battalion Commander, and Parler, J. D., and Bryant, H. B., as Cadet Company Commanders. Practical instruction was then taken up in extended order drill, bayonet combat, tent pitching, interior guard duty, and gallery practice. A Gallery Team was formed, and in April entered a team in the Southeastern Department Match, in which all R. O. T. C. Units in the Southeastern Department competed. Competitive matches were also held with Georgia School of Technology, The Citadel, Clemson, The University of South Carolina, and Davidson.

Problems in Minor Tactics solved on maps and on the sand tables followed by practical instruction in the field formed an important part in the last period of the training for the school year 1919-1920. The Unit was unable to secure a suitable target range in this vicinity, and so target practice with the Calibre .30 rifle was abandoned for the present.

An added feature of the R. O. T. C. work was an elective course in topography, of which fifteen members took advantage. This course consisted of several periods of theoretical instruction followed by actual mapping of the College campus.

Although a new addition to the College curriculum, the R. O. T. C. promises to continue its growth with the same upward strides as made in 1919-1920, and will eventually become one of the Major Studies.

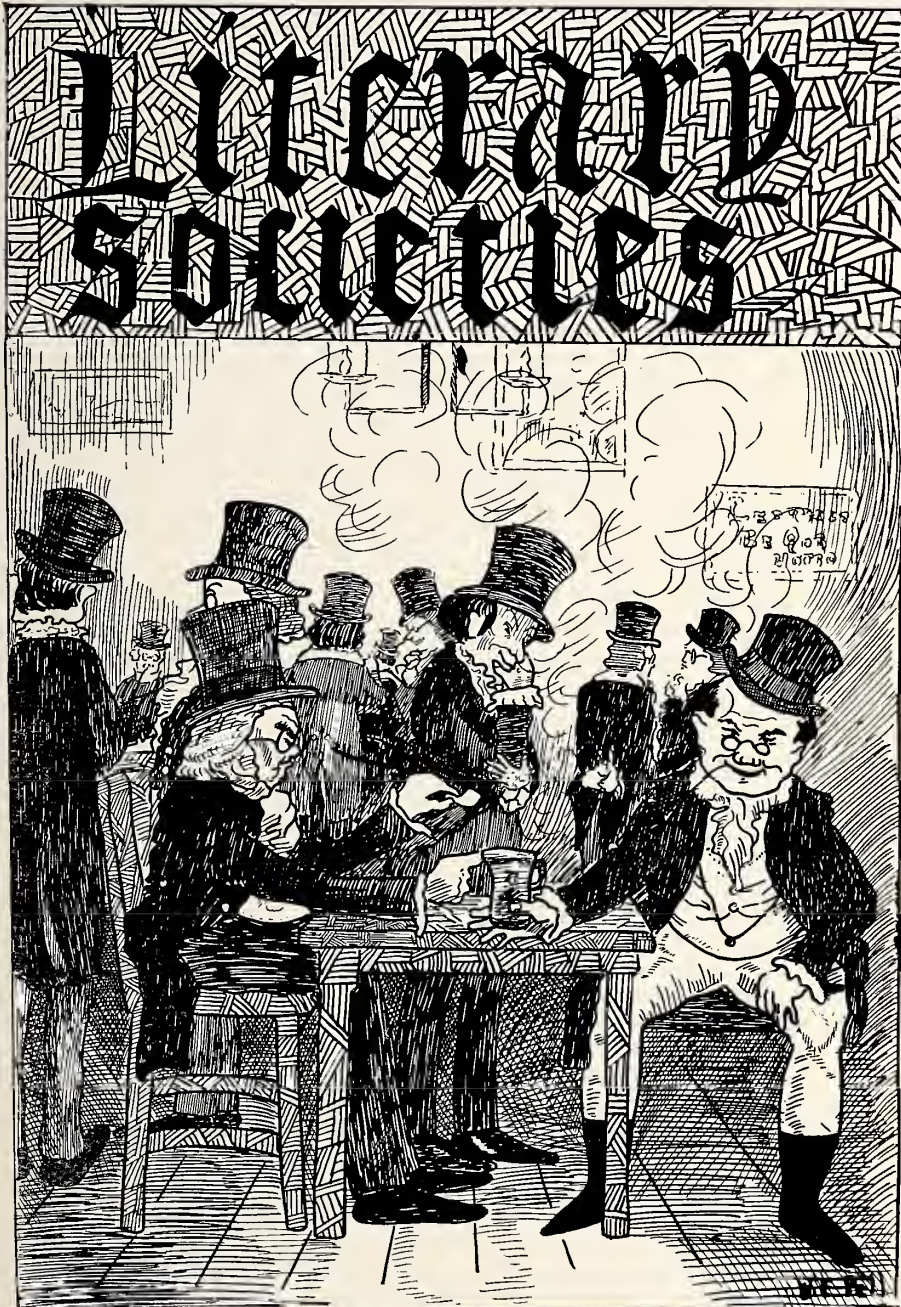

Those students who participated in the work in its infancy with a true born spirit of love of country and a desire to be equipped in case of national emergency, will take the leadership of our citizens in all fields of endeavor, whether state or national, and with this training taken as part of their college duties, will become fitted to lead our troops in any emergency.

HALL MANAGEMENT VERY EXTRAVAGANT

I WILL STARVEM, SPECIAL INVESTIGATOR, UNEARTHS FACTS

After several months of painstaking investigation, I. Will Starvem, agent for the Republic of Woffordia, has disclosed that Carlisle Hall is being run on a grossly extravagant basis.

According to the startling revelations of the agent, boarders in Carlisle Hall are given almost half as much as they pay for, a thing entirely out of keeping with the principles of the authorities. Furthermore, it is alleged that all of the boarders get enough to eat at least once a month. The food also is entirely too rich for students. Liver and bacon is recommended just once a day instead of twice. It is also charged that the cornbread is too light and delicate, and that its specific gravity is 5 instead of 10, which is the required heaviness. The management is said to have changed the brand of molasses, colloquially known as "zip," once in the last three years, a needless waste. The management, the investigation said, had not increased the quality of the fare since the increase in price was demanded. This, he said, was a very commendable feature, since the men were already getting too much to eat and that there must be a well defined vacancy in the vast interiors of students to result in any great degree of mental efficiency.

The attitude of the boarders at Carlisle Hall was very offensive, continued Mr. I. Will Starvem. They all, without exception, thought that there should be

CARMICHAEL RESIGNS FROM PRESIDENCY

EXPECTS TO ENTER THE MINISTRY IS REPORTED

What promises to be one of the most astounding sensations of recent political life in the Republic of Woffordia was the resignation last night of Benjamin Forrest Carmichael, known to friends and others as "Mike," from the Presidency in order to enter the ministry as a missionary to the heathen around Mullins, S. C.

According to reporters, ex-President Carmichael intends to organize a body of godly men, imbued with the same deep convictions that he has, and lead a crusade of evangelization to Mullins and other points of darkness. W. G. Smith, for years a well known parson and apostle of enlightenment, and who was at one time affiliated with Mr. Carmichael in the Y. M. C. A. at college, is to be his co-worker in evangelism.

While the unlooked for resignation of President Carmichael caused great consternation among the citizens here, men who have known him intimately say that they were not surprised, as he has always shown a great interest in religious affairs. In college, as President of the Y. M. C. A., his fervent prayers and spiritual appeals did much toward leading his flock along the straight and narrow way. He is said to favor a life of celibacy for the clergy, and he intends to set the example for the rest of his ministerial associates.

It is supposed that his new duties will begin at once.

HADES COMPANY ACQUIRES CHAPEL

Plan to Make a Pleasure Resort for Pedagogues.

One of the biggest business deals in the history of Woffordia was consummated here today when a contract was signed between the management of Wofford College and the Hades Consolidated Amusement Company of Hades, granting an infinity lease to the amusement company of the Wofford College Chapel. According to information given out by Mr. Lucifer Diable, manager of the aforesaid corporation, plans are under way to move the chapel to Hades, where it is to be situated in one of the amusement parks there. He stated that they were particularly fortunate in securing this addition to the already up-to-date equipment. As every one readily understands the climate in Hades is said to be extremely hot and dry. The management contemplates using the chapel as a sort of cooling resort. For the last seventy years the chapel has been storing up extreme cold. It has never been warm except on a few special occasions at commencement when the auditorium somewhat thawed. According to experts there is enough accumulated frigidness stored up in the chapel to last

WELL-KNOWN CANDIDATE MAKES RACE

Announces for Coroner of Dillon County.

Dillon, Feb. 30.—(Special.)—Undaunted by defeat, Hannibal Duncan, candidate at large, has announced for the thirteenth time for Coroner of Dillon County. He is confident of election this time, he says, having acquired a "new system" since his last defeat. Though a disappointed seeker after this and other coveted honors, Mr. Duncan remains the same sweet, smiling personality. It goes without saying that he has a host of friends who will wish him success in this, his latest political venture.

He has, in spite of his political fiascos, been prominent in all movements. His picture is often seen in the forefront of all gatherings of representative men.

In college Mr. Duncan showed the possibilities that he has since developed in private life. He was always a good sport, never minding the slightest loss, even in a friendly game. It was here that he earned his name of "Fish." It was in the social life of college that Mr. Duncan was a prominent figure, having had to the certain knowledge of everyone at least two dates in three years at Converse. He was known, however, for his persistence and spirit of forgiveness after any rebuff, believing that all things come to him who waits. His many friends trust that success will dog his footsteps.

INJUNCTION AGAINST LOCAL CONCERN

Aerial Language Co. Defendants In Important Case.

Late yesterday an injunction was served against the Aerial Language Co., prohibiting them from doing further business until their case is tried before the Supreme Court. The injunction was served on complaint of A. G. Rembert, J. A. Chiles, J. A. Gamewell and A. M. DuPre, who charge that the defendants have conspired to ruin their business of teaching languages of sundry sorts by selling devices for the rapid translation of all texts, however difficult. As long as students were content to use only the humble pony and jack which were more slow moving the pedagogs were satisfied to

PECULIAR MAN FOUND LIVING IN A CAVE

Claims to Have Been a Greek Professor.

Powder Mill, Feb. 30.—(Special.) In a sparsely populated part of the country in the environs of Inman, a small, heavily bearded man, living in a cave, was discovered late yesterday by a party of hunters returning from shooting wild boars in the savage wilds above Bishopton. The strange hermit gave his name as O. L. Pedagogue, after much quizzing, and stated that he had once been a professor of Greek at a well known college of South Carolina. After some persuasion he ventured from the darkness of the cave, where the hunters had been attracted by the odor of a vicious pipe, and began a disjointed recital of his history.

It appears that at one time O. L. Pedagogue was a professor of Greek Language and Literature at — College. He had been very enthusiastic in recommending the dusty course to unwary Freshmen, and had enticed many into the Hellenic trap by his specious arguments. According to him, Greek was the Shibboleth to success, the passport to Paradise. But as years went by and intelligence among the youthful increased, fewer and fewer were entrapped into this labyrinth. But, alas! for those who were. There was no hope for them but to take more and more of the gripping torture until finally the luckless students became as mentally deranged as the professor.

Finally a Theseus arose who was to be a savior of the victims to this minotaur of the twentieth century. A youth clad in the armor of a disarming smile, and with the weapon of a ready tongue and a flashing wit, organized a Soviet among his fellows, and met with the professor. They argued with him and dug and delved in the dust of the dead subject until they showed the wayward man that there was no longer virtue in the study of Greek. Oppressed by the sense of his error, he fled in the night and had lived a life of lonely penance in the murky cave, consoled only by the companionship of his rank and reeking pipe.

Let matters rest. However, with the advent of this aerial method they are unable to assign a lesson too difficult for translation, and their very existence is threatened. The case promises to be one of nation-wide interest.

NEW CORPORATION IS FORMED

Will Deal In Aids to Language Students.

At a meeting of a number of interested parties held yesterday a corporation called the Aerial Language Co. was formed to deal in the latest and most up-to-date means of helping language students pass their courses. It is understood that heretofore such students have had to depend on the time honored, but extremely clumsy and slow, ponies and jacks for their translations. Hereafter the new corporation will supply the latest form of motor driven vehicles of translation for Latin, Greek, German and French. The new devices are said to excel in efficiency and speed and to far surpass anything ever before put upon the market. Most of the devices work on the airplane principle.

Prominent stockholders in the Aerial Language Co. are Mase Johnson, H. V. Rast, Ben Oliver, C. B. Smith, I. B. Lever, the entire Latin class, most Greek students, and 200 others.

TWO SMALL BOYS ARE ARRESTED

Willie Bozeman and Phil Phillips Convicted of Pilfering.

When his honor, the Mayor, rapped for order this morning in the city court, two small boys, giving their names as Willie Bozeman and Phil Phillips, were led in by a stalwart policeman who said that he had arrested them in Professor Dunk Wallace's strawberry patch on the previous night. They were trying to rob him of his berries under cover of darkness by means of a flashlight. It was alleged that the culprits had been connected with many other offenses of a like nature, both having on several occasions been caught in the dining room of Carlisle Hall, attempting to pilfer milk and other eatables. Both are expert milkers and pleaded guilty at once of having milked the faculty's cows. Both boys swore, however, that Prof. Dunk's cow never gave a drop of milk, being a very frugal Scotch cow.

After hearing the arguments of the defendants, the Mayor sentenced Willie and Phil to cultivate assiduously the garden of the professor in question and not to touch a berry for three months.

LOCAL NEWS OF VITAL INTEREST

Dr. Rembert Makes Discovery

Dr. Rembert, after propounding the momentous question to every class every time they met for the past Nth years, as to which came first, the hen or the egg, has at last concluded, after perceiving a Carlisle Hall egg with his olfactory senses, that it must have been the egg.

Comes to Unhappy End

The funeral of the Wofford Y. M. C. A. was held yesterday amid the sorrowful grief of its sole member, Polly Parrott. The deceased has for years been dragging out a gradually dwindling existence, and last Friday it gasped its last. Its demise is mourned by its former presidents. No member of the faculty was present, since no posters announcing the decease were sent around to the campus homes.

Phenomenon in Physics 2

Only fifteen members of Peg Shuler's 2:30 Physics Class went to sleep during his lecture yesterday. He rigged them all up to an induction coil and kept them awake by periodic shocks.

Unusual Performance of Bell

The college bell rang today one minute before the Psychology hour was up, a thing that hasn't happened in 39 years. It is reported that the bell ringer has fled for parts unknown.

Greater Comfort for English Students

Couches and cushions have been placed in the English room, so that the students may sleep more comfortably during Dr. Pugh's erudite lectures on Fenimore Cooper. It is expected that a superior class of dreams will be produced henceforth during the English hour.

Has Sympathy of All

"Heinie" is confined to his room today with mumps, never having had such childish and puerile diseases in his youth. All his students are deeply sorrowful and wish that he would recall the sympathetic remarks which he made to sufferers with the same malady.

Found His Quarter

Work of raking the leaves from the campus will not continue any longer. "Dunk" has found his lost quarter, and has ordered the rakers to desist from further labors.

Manager Hart Makes Experiment

Manager Hart got up as early as 9 o'clock today and ate dinner with the common herd. He says that he has not discontinued the practice of having his meals served in his room, but wishes to condescend in order to get a true knowledge of the masses of the populace.

Hooks Still Playing Shylock

"Hooks" Odom collected ten dollars from gullible victims in the Back Latin Class, distributed ample translations, assigned six books of Cicero for the next lesson, and gave the required unit credits to all who paid up in advance.

Students Will Also Meet Class

It is reported that Clink will meet his 7 o'clock class in astronomy tomorrow for the first time. Since the weather has warmed up, students will also meet this class.

Class Overcome With Emotion

"Graveyard" Chiles told a joke in the German Class today. All of the students were so surprised at the unexpected happening that the class had to be dismissed to overcome its emotions.

Important Matter Settled

The wise men of Gotham met in solemn and secret conclave last week, and after much lengthy consideration of all sides of the weighty and all important question, its relation to world conditions and possible effects on the stock markets of the world, although fearing a crash on the Bourse in Paris, decided to select the membership of the Senior Order of Gnomes at once. This selection has always given rise to civil strife and internecine warfare and it is a matter which only the wisest and most august personages are allowed to pass upon. News of this potent decision was flashed to all parts of the civilized world by wireless, and even Mars is understood to be making an effort to learn the names of the appointees.

Undertakes Missionary Work

At a recent meeting of the Ministerial Band a motion was made and carried that the band go in a body to Soviet Clemson, in order to do missionary work among the heathen. Much good is expected to result.

Seniors Breaking Precedent

Ray Neighbour and Dewey Petit were caught working on an experiment in Quantitative Analysis yesterday. Such an occurrence is a strange phenomenon and caused widespread comment.

Library Much Disturbed

A great commotion broke the sepulchral silence of the library this morning. It was caused by the unexpected scraping of a chair. That was the most noise that had been heard there since its founding.

To Fight Radicalism

It is remarked that the faculty is much perturbed over the spread of the seeds of radicalism from a neighboring institution. Drastic preventive steps have been taken to curb the growth of the Soviet spirit recently discovered here, whose avowed object is to depose all professors and to appoint instructors from among their own number. In future no red flags, red neckties, or even red litmus will be permitted on the campus. As a step toward curbing the unrest, liver and onions, a rare delicacy, is being fed to the hungry students.

Noted Specialist Here

Dr. I. Brainem, the noted alienist, will be here next week to make sanity tests among the students. Friends will be sorry to learn that Wilson Phillips has been called out of town for the week.

Unusual Discovery

The Reverend Waldo Lever, noted evangelist and farmer in the Hog Wallow District of Berkeley County, while digging potatoes recently in the graveyard of his parish was surprised to unearth a skull. It was perfectly solid and of the most beautiful ivory. It is thought to be the skull of one of his distinguished predecessors.

HANNIBAL IN DIRE STRAITS

Stranded in the Alps With Only
Two Elephants Left—All Suffer From Cold.

(By Our Special Correspondent, Rip Van Winkle.)

(In a wireless dispatch today from the Alps Prof. Joseph Augustus Gamewell was notified of the death of Hannibal's last elephant as a result of the cold of the Italian spring. Livy, a special friend of the professor, notified him.)

Stranded high in the Alps, suffering the intense cold of the Italian spring in the higher Alps, Hannibal and his army are suffering untold hardships and privations. Livy, military spy of the Romans, visited them and has brought back an astonishing tale to Rome. Livy, being the special friend of Prof. Gamewell of Wofford College, is preparing to send an account of what he saw to him by wireless. At present Rome is preparing to attack Hannibal by airplane, with Julius Caesar as squadron commander, but it is understood that Cincinnatus is not in favor of the above plan. He favors sending the Gracchi brothers in command of the gas division to annihilate the hostile army unless they surrender in the meantime to St. Jerome, the noted diplomat, who is negotiating with Hasdrubal by psychic means.

In the meanwhile Hannibal is making a desperate effort to drag his long range guns into play by means of his two remaining elephants, but no amount of prodding in the sensitive anatomy of the elephants will produce results.

It is rumored that President Wilson has sent an ultimatum to both Hannibal and Scipio, demanding that all the peoples involved have the right of self-determination.

through the rest of eternity, even in so warm a locality as the ether regions.

The Hades Consolidated Amusement Company makes a specialty of catering to ex-college professors, having a large number of regular patrons, especially among those who in former times were wont to flunk seniors. It is thought that the new addition to this cool resort will be very popular among the restless members of the teaching class. Here they will have a cool and shady recess in which to spend their idle moments, gossiping convivially together as they drink their refreshing flagons of molten flint rocks, undisturbed by the glare of burning brimstone without. Certainly, in the opinion of the best informed there is no danger of the chapel ever thawing out to the degree that it will ever be comfortable to any mortal. Therefore it is thought that it will be ideally suited for pedagogues.

enough bread to go around at every meal. They did not seem to relish the bacon at all, which is stewed swimming in savory grease, and some even demanded that the oleomargarine be not over thirteen years old. In fact, the general attitude of the students was one of arrogant fault finding. Never were such Epicureans and Sybarites seen before.

Another astounding thing was their demand that the steam heat be turned on before class time on very cold mornings. But what was worse than that, there were some who required hot water for bathing at least once a week. Hot water once a week is too extravagant. They should use cold water, as the hall manager said that he had been wont to do, during his short sojourn at West Point.

In short, the conditions at Carlisle Hall were deplorable.

Mr. I. Will Starvem recommended that the diet be further reduced, but stated that plenty of plain, faucet water should be given for drinking purposes, for

The Modern Woman

The modern woman is a subject that is often treated—diplomatically. She it is who makes the world's wheels go round and sets the universe aright. "The hand that rocks the cradle rules the world," some one has said. That was very true in bygone days, but now the cradle is rocked by electricity and the hand that once rocked it is tapping a typewriter, casting a vote or playing bridge. Although the world has progressed a great deal since Eve ruled it, there have been few changes in the characteristics of woman.

The great difference has been in dress and other outward differences. Eve wore fig leaves, the modern woman has discarded even them. Adam could comfortably rest under the shade of a palm tree, contentedly smoking his corn cob pipe without the everlasting fear that a bill collector would run him down. One of the anomalies of modern life is just why when a woman's dress grows shorter the price goes higher. By 1930 the dress will have disappeared and the price will have reached above the head of the average man. According to the latest information from Paris, a three-inch girdle is to be worn next season. Whether there will be anything else worn was not stated. Presumably hats are to be larger than usual, as the area to be sun-burned will be larger. By the way, while speaking of hats, why is it that the woman of today attaches more importance to what goes on the head than what goes in it? The modern girl starts out by saying that she wants to make a "career" and never expects to marry. That's the type that usually winds up as secretary to her husband.

Children, with the modern woman of the upper strata, are extremely unpopular. Poodles are so much more satisfactory pets and are less trouble. And then to be congenial, associates should have the same tastes and degree of intellectuality.

The human race is divided into three sexes, men, women and old maids. It has been noted that there has been a marked growth in the latter class in the last several years. Probably the war has had some effect on this abnormal condition, since the economic law of supply and demand is inexorable and the man supply has sadly diminished. Statistics show that 99,999 per cent of all old maids have done what they could to prevent their condition; fate has been against them. The other .001 per cent declared that they believed marriage to be the root of all evil. If the high cost of living, loving and dressing doesn't backslide there will be mighty little evil left.

The Intellectual Collegian

The hope of the nation is in the college man, for the collegian is the man who has the brains. Even though he has no brains to begin with, after the influence of a few years spent in college he imbibes enough sense to fool even an anatomist and make him believe there is something inside his head besides solid ivory. There is something savoring of the intellectual in the atmosphere of a college and especially a dormitory where boys are permitted to exist, hope to eat, and have their being together. There thrown together constantly they are permitted to discuss the great questions and issues of the day until even the casual listener is thoroughly familiar with the mighty problems that perplex the age.

For how is a man to be a dynamic personality and a powerful leader without knowing the baseball scores of all the college teams for the past ten years? Surely in no other environment would a man be able to acquire this valuable information than in a college. Such problems of moment as the latest fad in the height of hat crowns and the exact number of seams that the back of a sport coat should have are also constantly discussed and decided upon in council assembled. Then again there is the ever present question of how the latest dance step is executed, and which is preferable, the tickle toe or the camel walk. Without the sojourn of four years within the college walls a man would necessarily grow up in utter ignorance of the above essentials to success and would be handicapped through life.

Aside from the purely intellectual side of his education, the college man receives an education in practical politics. He learns in the strenuous struggle for preferment and college honors how to smile pleasantly at his enemies and pretend friendship for those whom he detests. Certainly the nation need have no fears in depending on the college man for leadership.

As To Free Verse and Free Love

The world today is suffering from too much free verse and too little love of any sort, much less of the free sort. The high cost of living has about driven the lovers out of business. The discouraged lovers have all gone into the business of writing their woes in free verse, that is to say, verse which they submit for printing gratis, without charge. In our opinion a heavy tax should be placed on it, and the authors incarcerated for the period of his or her insanity. Amy Lowell was the original prophetic of vers libre. To her disciples anything without rhyme is free verse from a laundry ticket to a concert program. There is a periodic eruption of poets, free and otherwise, every spring. We wish to urge upon our esteemed lawmakers the passage of a law making such atrocities a crime. According to the latest definition free verse is all verse which costs the hearer or reader nothing. There is an abundance of it. Our idea is to charge all the would-be poets a dollar a line for the stuff, thereby giving periodicals a fruitful field of income.

When it comes to free love, that is another story. Our definition of free love is that form of love which does not necessitate the spending of something over three times the luckless suitor's income, upon his fiancée before marriage in order to impress her with the fact that he is the right man for her. In this age there is no such thing as free love; it costs something to be a lover nowadays. In the days of our grandfathers, when the old gentleman hitched up Dobbin and drove five miles to see Nancy the high cost of theatre parties was not a subject for worry. Neither did the latest models in limousines and roadsters cause him sleepless nights; old Dobbin had the same stream lines in 1843 that he had in 1842. When grandad wanted to send Nancy a posie he didn't have to go to a fashionable florist and buy American beauties at $20 per dozen; he just picked a bunch of hollyhocks and carried them to her. And the funny part about it all was that Nancy appreciated them. What would your girl do if you carried her hollyhocks? No, loving is an expensive process in this fast age. Now when you are lying awake at night wondering how you are going to pay your bill for Huyler's, can you imagine how your grandad felt after a candy pulling frolic? Verily it was bliss to be alive in that by-gone age and to be a lover. This old world may be headed for the rocks of radicalism, but it won't be because of free love; it costs more than ever before.

"Luna-sea"

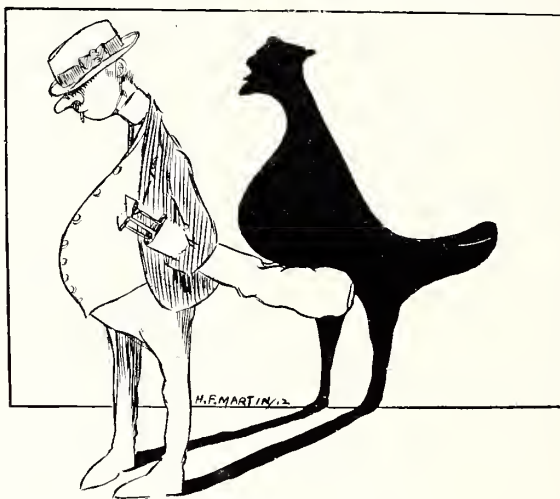

IN THE VERNACULAR

Mother tells me I use entirely too much slang.
I deny the allegation.
That's all "bunk."
She says I should read history and classics all the time;
But I can't stand that dreary high-brow "junk."
When it comes to Aristotle, Plutarch and these "guys,"
How could I read them?
"For the love of Mike!"
To their "gift of gab" and faculty for "slinging ink" "I'm wise."
But if she don't "lay off me" soon I'll strike.

I shall say, "Now, mother, 'get me?'
And I'll give you an 'earful.'
If you don't 'dry up' I'll 'beat it' in a hurry.
When you say that I read 'low-brow stuff entirely,
That's all 'bull.'
I've read Susan Lenox twice,
So 'I should worry.'
When you say your offspring uses slang
You're talking through your 'Knox.'
Though I know some things I say are 'full of pep,'
All the 'wise guys' and the 'speed kings'
That travel with my 'gang'
Say I'm 'stupid like a fox.'
And that's some 'rep.'

"Things have changed since you were my age.
Let me 'slip it to you straight.'
I may not be 'hep' to things that you admire;
But you want to 'show some speed,' old dear;

You're 'tripping on your beard.'
Compared to you a snail's a 'ball of fire.'
Now you know I'm 'nuts' about you,
So don't let me 'get your goat,'
But just think this over when you 'hit the hay.'

"O, WAD'SOME POWER"

"GOING AFTER THE MAIL"

If you don't 'take a brace,' dear,
You'll be 'sunk'; you'll 'miss the boat.'
I don't want those 'muts' to think that you're a 'jay.'
I don't 'hit' the booze' or 'drag
the weed,'
Or any of those 'things.'
Though I swing a very mean
'hoof,' you'll agree,
I'm 'daffy' over 'jaz' bands, and
I am a movie 'bug,'
But outside of that you'll 'find no
flies on me.'

"Now, sweetie, don't get 'sore at me'
For all this 'line of talk'
That I've added up and handed out to you.
You 'wished it on yourself'
By telling me that I use slang.
And, 'on the level,'
I don't think I do."
—Elsie Janis.

TO THE BULLFROG

Some poets sing of nightingales
And others praise the lark;
I laud the little bullfrog who
Sings sweetly after dark.

Small chanter of the summer
swamps,
How beauteous is thy lay!
What joy to hear thy dulcet
croaks
Whilst lolling in the hay!

The gentle gurglings of thy throat
Make melody divine
Which doth the heifer's maiden breast
To amorous thoughts incline.

The lovesick donkey hears thy voice
And bursts forth into song
Which fills the calm and peaceful night
With melodies gone wrong.

1. For immediate effect: One teaspoonful of trinitrotoluol, followed by a half teaspoonful of nitroglycerine. Take a hammer and hit yourself on your front elevation, centre, smartly. You can go far on one application.

2. Half glass of ink, 1-4 glass of milk of magnesia, 1-8 glass of morphine, vaseline, gasoline, benzine and phosgene. One test tube of arsenic. Take one dose as an irritant—follow closely by a counter irritant. The defendant will probably plead guilty.

3. Mix extract of agar-agar with mucilage and add a little good ole mud to colour. Shake well. Pour in a few drops of conc. sulphuric acid, and stir with a rabbit's foot. Add one fresh and one other egg. Stir whole thing with a knife dipped in turpentine to preserve its plating, and swallow quickly. Send no flowers.

BOOK REVIEWS

"Psychology of the Soldier," by William Glenn Smith. MacMillan Co. In the above-named volume the author takes up an important question that has long disturbed scholars and deep thinkers. In his treatment of the subject he shows a remarkable knowledge of practical psychology and has a deep insight into the life and habits of the soldier, due probably to his own long and arduous military experience. An evidence of the deepest and most profound knowledge of psychology is evident on every page of this little book and the author has the knack of expressing himself in an extremely clear and scientific manner. This book has aroused the scholarly interest of the entire world and is destined to probably outrank the late work by Einstein.

"Laugh and Grow Fat," by Peter Peeples. Houghton, Mifflin Co. Rarely is there a work by a contemporary author which has aroused the unstinted praise of the above named book by Mr. Peeples. Probably the work has been over praised, but this is no doubt due to the ever increasing strain of optimism which runs from the first page throughout the book. In this volume of sagacious advice, the author, who, by the way, is a world famous humorist, has incorporated some of his own jolly, sparkling, effervescent humor and optimism. While the book is dedicated to very fat men like the author, even the lean will find much food for thought and matter for mirth in its pages.

"The Pentateuch," by Moses. Oxford University Press. Mr. Moses has scored a fair success with his new book, "The Pentateuch. His former work as editor of "The Ten Commandments: How to Know Them," gave him little opportunity for his racy narrative style, local color, and inimitable dialect, but he has done, on the whole, rather well in this new field. To be sure, there are those in this day and time who find the idea of any religion unnecessary; we are of that number, because, in the modern world of machinery, there is no time for it. However, there are still some unfortunates who take comfort in religion, such stirring things as Ella Wheeler Wilcox's poetry, and Robert W. Chambers' novels to the contrary notwithstanding. It is difficult to realize that any one should go to church or even have any sentiment about churches when there are such attractions as colored Sunday supplements. No matter what we may say against the Huns, we must give them credit for impressing upon us the uselessness of houses of worship, of religion, and of any religious beliefs. Therefore we can hope for no great success for The Pentateuch. As a piece of writing it compares favorably in style with the work of Gene Stratton Porter or Harold Bell Wright; the plots, although not quite as ingenious as those of O. Henry, are nevertheless rather decent. Taken as a whole, it is not a badly written book on a limited subject; it will have a limited clientele—there are some people who will read anything—but it is certain that only a few copies will sell, and that the name and memory both of Mr. Moses and his misguided work will wither and evanesce.

"The Goneness of the Past," by Wilson Phillips. Henry Holt & Co. Few writers have endeavored to deal with such intricate matters of philosophy and metaphysics as Mr. Phillips has. Needless to say he has shown a remarkable degree of acumen and a far reaching knowledge of his subject that has surprised his contemporaries and set the intellectual world agog. No writer is better equipped mentally to deal with the puzzling questions of abstract philosophy than Mr. Phillips. He early showed that he possessed the necessary balance of trained intellect to cope with any situation however much it involved matters beyond his immediate scope of information, and this latest work is just another illustration of his capacity to grasp the abstract.

"The Spurned Lover," by Hannibal F. Duncan. Slush Publishing Co. Popular novels are rarely enduring, but it is hoped that the latest work of fiction by Mr. Duncan will prove of long endurance, especially as it teaches such a valuable lesson to the youthful collegian who is possessed with over much vanity. The hero of the novel is "a tall, handsome blond," to use the author's own words, who is buffeted about at the hands of sundry maidens whom he seeks to endear to him by his self-opinionated gracefulness. After having the scorn of the maidens showered upon him for years, the hero at last sees things in their true values and repents the folly of his youth. The fact that the author is probably the hero of the story lends an interesting personal touch to it.

"Long-Eared Mike, the Autobiography of a Jackass," by A. T. Moore. E. P. Dutton & Co. Needless to say, this is a strange piece of fiction by a well known author. However, it is as original as it is unusual. Here the author assumes the place of the celebrated long-eared quadruped and endeavors to interpret sympathetically the attitude of this lowly beast toward life. No author is better fitted by experience for this interpretation and certainly no one approaches nearer to the real expression of the true jackass. Mr. Moore shows first-hand information on his subject and treats it with a fascinating personal touch.

"The Monk Who Married," by Woodrow Ward. Charles Scribner & Sons. The latest work of fiction by Mr. Ward deserves a remarkable degree of praise on account of its reality. In fact it is a true story of the author's life with a medieval setting. However, as good as the general tone of the novel is the author shows entirely too little sympathy with the weaker sex. Even though he has been thrice married, he has no right to condemn the whole sex to intellectual perdition. Probably the author's own marital experiences are to blame for his cynical attitude toward the fair sex, and he is to be consoled rather than blamed.

"The Joys of Labor," by Hardluck Stuart. Harpers. The work on the joys of labor by Mr. Stuart is supposed to be an economic treatise written in a breezy style to make it readable. All would be well if the author knew whereof he spoke, but unhappily he has little conception of what labor is. In fact, he seems entirely out of harmony with all work of any sort, and is merely voicing the theories of an arm chair economist. It would help the sincerity of the tone of his work if he would engage in some labor for at least a short while just to see at first hand what it is like.

Liquefaction of Corn Continues

THERMOMETERS RISE

Rain Continues to Fall in Some Parts of the Country—Upward Movement Has Not Yet Been Noticed—Twilight Also Falling. The Small Investor Invests Smally.

Business men in the far West, including Chicago, New Orleans, and Buffalo, are still interested in the continued liquefaction of corn in the manufacture of corn whisky and gives spirit to the market. The hope that this fluidity will last is, however, unfounded.

Thermometers still rise when placed in the sun, while rain has not yet been observed to mount up into the sky, but wherever found continues to fall, according to expectations cited in this column last week.

About the only stable thing on the market at this time is hay, for the bulls are beginning to feel their oats and consequently they are jumpy. Hogs and zebras are almost boisterous today, climbing to unexpected heights. One prize hog was said to climb the Washington monument this morning.

Yesterday a corner was discovered in a square, although none has been found to date in any circle. The small investor continues to invest to a slight extent, but if there is any increased investment from this quarter, they are expected to become large investors. Marriage bonds continue to be popular and the interest continues to accrue. May is always a good month for these conservative investors. Messrs. Eros and Cupid deal extensively in such gilt-edge securities.

MAKE HAIR GROW

Davis' Hair Grower has been adopted by the Bolshevik government with astounding results. It has been shown that any color may be produced.

Billiard balls have become hairy overnight with this wonderful discovery of the late Dr. Sausserage Davis. He himself induced a heavy growth of hair on his erstwhile bald pate.

It is especially useful to youthful collegians who wish to produce a mustache where none grew before.

GONE TO GRASS

By HARVEY SMITH M'COWAN
Author of "The Trail a Boy Travels"

My friends, for twenty years I have been looking for a man that never saved a dollar in his life and is glad of it. I have not found him.

But I know a man who lived to be seventy years of age and could not fill out a check. He had never signed one because he had never had a bank account.

He is dead.

He died a pauper.

He left his wife in suffering poverty. His shroud is the wedding suit of the friends who dressed him for his funeral.

He lies today in a coffin bought by kindly neighbors.

When he died he left this epitaph to adorn the board which marks his tomb:

"Here lies the remains of a SPENDTHRIFT. I never saved a dollar in my life. I have never prepared against the day of misfortune. I never took out a life insurance policy. I never owned a home of my own. I never had a bank account. There are debts which I have never paid and which I never can pay. My life has been a failure and I want the world to let the grass grow over my grave and forget that I ever lived."

(Signed) A SPENDTHRIFT.

We appreciate this because it is a daily truth. We are interested in you men and want to help you. Come to us for any help you need. Deposit with us. There is no better friend to Wofford College and its students than this good old bank. Our association dates from 1871. We can help you if you will let us.
